Amazing crypter, Maybe the best crypter there on HF.

I tested many crypters, And Dolphin Protector gave me 0/60 result.

I purchased the private stub + Dolphin Protector plan for 2 months.

Support seems to be great, This guy is a good coder, I asked him many questions on skype and he told me the truth without problems.

Also very friendly.

Will purchase more products from him in the future for sure!! ++++ HUGE VOUCH.

I know it's not the same, It is basically polymorphic but the decryptor of main code also gets mutated on every crypt.

That wouldn't really resolve the problem because the stub can't choose the framework according to the one installed in machine it is ran. Unless of course the user is doing targeted spreading.

Many users have .net 4.0 installed, sure its not as commonly installed on xp sp3, or whatever, but you'll find a lot of windows 7 machines have it installed.

If you know who you are spreading to and they really want to run the program, they will most likely download .net 4.0 if required.

Ok this crypter IS THEE best crypter on hackforums haha out of all the 7 crypters i bought, his crypter actually bypassed the ones that he says it can bypass. And the stub literally is FUD haha Scantime and Runtime. Im an official customer for life man. The only crypter that was ever similar to this one was DataScrambler by Mace. Oh and btw the Support is awesome too, i hit him on skype and he responded instantly to help me with my problems haha. I love you man

Crypter costs quite abit. Is it possible to see demonstration of crypter in action via teamviewer or something? And using lumonisity stub.

Not planning to buy any time soon but just wondering. This looks like something high quality

Please note that no delay was added, or anti-memory scanner.

The file crypted was:

DarkComet RAT

The options used were:

Compress, Process Persistence

Gamer222 - August 21, 2015, 5:44 am

Any chance for a scan with delay and anti-memory scanner, because with the settings above it does not bypass more AVs (5) than it does bypass (4)?

With a different RAT and more options it will surely bypass more AVs

I'm thinking of maybe getting Dolphin Protector, but I have a couple of questions.

Since I've heard of a couple of people having .net problems, how good is the compatibility with LuminosityLink?

And what's up with the price? The link and original post say it costs 30$ for 30 days, but your signatures say 20$ for 30 days.

This crypter is really FUD, but I'm expecting some errors since I bought it.

Tried to talk with Dolphin owner, he said that he can fix it, but days are passing and I lost many of my slaves.

I'm asking for my cash back, I can't keep losing them.

I sent him many screens on skype, he knows what's happening..

Please m8, provide my refund if you can't fix the error.

The Dolphin owner knows what's hapenning. I sent him maaaany screenshots about the error on different slaves/different machines. He said that he could fix it few days ago, made an update but it still crashing and I lost almost all my clients.

I'm really asking for my $30 btc back since seems he can't fix it.

But nowadays he doesnt answer me.

If you are running Imminent, the error is on Imminents side, on 32 bit systems it seems to be crashing, regardless of the crypt, you will get the same issue on all crypters.

Itself injection will not bypass memory detection.

DaRealMVP - December 19, 2015, 10:14 pm

Hmm seems like a decent crypter, i've used various crypters cryptx reborn, abyss crypter and some more, i'm curious to try this got any test crypts?

Give him some time, It new year today and holiday all over the world,
Coders also need to give some time to his family on holidays.
I am sure he will sort out as he comes back.
