A devastating meditation on the human cost of war, this animated tale follows Seita (Tsutomu Tatsumi), a teenager charged with the care of his younger sister, Setsuko (Ayano Shiraishi), after an American firebombing during World War II separates the two children from their parents. Their tale of survival is as heartbreaking as it is true to life. The siblings rely completely on each other and struggle against all odds to stay together and stay alive.

i remember watching this movie 20 years ago and i still remember how it made me so sad at that time ?

i recommend watching this movie if you havent

This is one of the saddest movies ever.

I felt like shit at the end of it. The brother was a fucker trooper.
