Thread: DarkTheme 11 ACTUAL CONTROLS No Repeats

Vysse - July 15, 2015, 8:18 pm

I worked on this for a project I am doing but I am going to be using a different color so I thought why not release the theme and make the colors easily changeable. I recommend only changing DarkColor and LightColor and changing them to something near each other so it looks good still but do as you wish with it. Credits to Earn for most of the theme as I used his themes as a base for mine. Credits to SaketSaket for the Toggle since I used his toggle as a base for mine. Credits to myself for the TabControl, Datagridview, and Combobox since I pulled those from an old theme of mine and did them myself.

Here is a preview:

That's one horrible looking theme you have there.

I like it except you should get rid of the line that runs through the title text in the Groupbox... but other than that; I think it looks pretty good ;)

I am working on that I am not sure how to measure what area the string is going to be otherwise it would be a simple fix

Code g.MeasureString

Now we're even...kind of.

The faux-gradient doesn't work with the rest. It's okay for the header, though.

I like your theme container but IMHO controls should be darker ? Nice work !

SaketSaket - July 16, 2015, 6:03 am

Nice work with theme... Keep coding keep sharing ;)

As a guy who loves making themes, and i hope you do as well. It takes practice and an eye for design to get a good looking theme. There are way worse themes; i would recommend working on your "design" by finding a UI that looks cool and then replicate it.

What does "ACTUAL CONTROLS No Repeats" mean?

It means there are 11 actual controls and none of them are repeated but different variation of.
