I completely redesigned the website from scratch using HTML/CSS No PHP or MySql features are being used the old design was the same theme hak5 has got tried of looking like hak5 wanted to be unique spent 24 hours designing the layout and coding the CSS another 2 days were spent converting over content from the old word press website.

Still not fully finished adding all the content i stopped to work on the main SEO part of the website and just submitted the main pages such as the index page, videos page, downloads page, about page and contact page.

Downloads page wasn't even ready I'll possibly end up changing that around still not 100% im using the right SEO keywords in the site possibly end up paying a company to give me SEO support in September i guess maybe by then I'll be finished with fixing broken pages on Google and other back links.

Anyways my website is for ethical hacking training still a work in progress just figured i'd see what all the critics have to say about it.
