Thread: So it's summer break...

Lipton's Ice Tea™ - July 25, 2015, 9:18 am

Okay it's a week into summer break here into England and I'm bored as a midget in a theme park.

So - I need some creative ideas that I can do from my bedroom. I've already started my own Hosting Company, got 3 money making eBooks and I have some money laying around in my PayPal.

Before any people thinking they're smart saying go get a summer job I've looked around and nobody will take me due to insurance at my age. That's why I'm doing some web design for family relatives.

So - any thoughts on some creative services I can do for free or paid on HF or in general? :)

Thanks - this thread is also for other people on Summer Break who are starting to get that boredom feeling.

Yeah go out get to know as many people as you can expand your social life.

Party, do all kind of stuff with friends and you won't be bored.

Have fun.

You're never too young to start drinking and taking drugs, find some good buddies who want to do the same and this summer will be the most fun you've ever had.

On a serious note, don't start drinking and doing drugs, although it is fun, it's illegal lol. Hover around the service requests and buyers bay and see if you can do anything people are requesting, especially the ones offering $'s.
