Hello

I am kind of quite on this forum and do not use it much but I am looking to expand my online presence. A little about my current online presence, I have been making on average (give or take) 1800/mo for the past 2 years, and will continue (legit online business). In addition, I am starting another endeavor later (greyhat) with some people of hackforums (be on the lookout for that post). However, I would like to expand into different realms. I have the money, experience and drive to make money. So if you have a great business idea (online or offline) please message me so we can discuss our opportunity. I am looking for people that are also driven by passion, and money.

Thanks
