So close to not being an advertisement and being a legitimate haiku, yet so far.

Line 2: 7

The void is perfect;

Just like lithium.

Can anyone tell me if this is a valid entry? First time doing a haiku lol.

Mouse? - July 28, 2015, 7:55 am

Yes, it's a valid haiku, but it confuses me greatly and scares me slightly.

Walt Disney™ - July 28, 2015, 7:58 am

Ok I have like 40 haikus.

Here's another:

That one makes me sad. And I prefer the 2nd one.

Notorious™ - July 28, 2015, 8:25 am

Just writing whatever came to my mind at the time, it is really difficult to express feelings in 3 such small sentences.

Here is my last haiku:

The void is my home;
All I feel is emptiness;
She leaves me speechless.

It seems as though people are revolving around sadness as their subject material lol, very repetitive. It is like they are trying TOO hard to be deep.

Probably why it's not in the correct format either. ?

You're using 5,8,5, so therefor the middle line doesn't work. ?

Some of these Haiku's are pretty decent imo. I liked Dcent's the best due to the fact that some of us lie to ourselves, saying we'll be done, but we can't stop. We tell ourselves that we just need one more day, but that leads to another...and another..and so forth. Then Raven's shook me..if you know love and pain and can find deeper meanings in words, Raven's is top notch. Recommend this member. Stazzy's is just funny to me, and he's a great member, so look into that guy!

Some good applicants thus far, but some bad ones(probably just members who don't know how to write a haiku haha). Keep it up everyone, and good luck to all of you!
