

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Less than 24 hours & already deciding to go back to Win 7

PloxSource - July 31, 2015, 7:29 am

Installed Windows 10 three times today, decided it's not worth the time and that everyone should stay away from it until it's fixed.

All today, I've had problems with drivers disappearing (Network Mainly), Graphics Adaptors not updating and stuck with shit quality, unresponsive apps and freezing randomly. Windows not being activated.. The list goes on.

I suggest everyone keep at their Windows 7 or 8 for a while until some updates roll out

PLT ? - July 31, 2015, 7:31 am

I'll agree the first 24 hours were kinda' dreadful for me. But now everything is smoothed out. My drivers are fine. Everything is running smoothly.

When it was first installed I did have issues with GPU and sound drivers but that's been fixed. Also had issues with the pretty bad performance issues but that seems to have resolved itself as well.

illuminaughty - July 31, 2015, 7:42 am

What's everyone's problem with windows 10? It's been working fine for me, not a single glitch.

E M I N e M - July 31, 2015, 7:43 am

I think many users are having some issues with the Upgrade.

I think it's very smooth OS and I love the faster boot comparing to Win 8.1..

Dowls - July 31, 2015, 7:45 am

The only issues i've had is programs not supporting Windows 10 fully. Even then a majority of them work and nvidia released the drivers fast enough for my display not to be an issue.

Webmasters - July 31, 2015, 7:46 am

I only had issues when I first upgraded, then I reboot and it fixed them all.

Only thing I can say is this.. Photoshop and a few other programs aren't optimized yet, so they have a delay on them. As well, programs take longer to close (me and a few others have found out).

SIM-878011 - July 31, 2015, 7:47 am

Only issue I had was the windows 10 app not appearing in the taskbar, I had to force download and install it. Other than that, I'm loving it.

Brings a whole new and better feel IMO.

Kill?Muvz - July 31, 2015, 7:49 am

Windows 10 works fine for me. Have a fully functional VM with no issues.

Tyronnn - July 31, 2015, 7:54 am

(Jul 31, 2015 07:42 AM)illuminaughty Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What's everyone's problem with windows 10? It's been working fine for me, not a single glitch.

That^ I 100% enjoy windows 10 and have no issues either OP just upset D: Personally don't think its worth waiting 12+ hours to swap back to old OS xD

#Infinite - July 31, 2015, 10:17 am

I'm loving windows 10, I've had 0 bugs so far and don't think i'll have any more bugs to be honest. It's been smooth and fast.

Deirous - July 31, 2015, 11:06 am

(Jul 31, 2015 07:42 AM)jilluminaughty Wrote: CITE What's everyone's problem with windows 10? It's been working fine for me, not a single glitch. Yeah, i haven't had any problems yet.. and i doubt i will have, loving it so far :3

The Supreme Leader - July 31, 2015, 11:31 am all i've had problems with is the search bar not working. and i had to restart my pc to get it working again.

webdev77 - July 31, 2015, 11:34 am

All problems that I've heard about are the result of users screwing things up themselves by downloading and installing things they shouldn't or are due to people not updating to the correct drivers.

GreenTea - July 31, 2015, 11:42 am

If it doesn't work for you it doesn't mean it doesn't work for everyone else. It worked fine for me, the download of it and the upgrade of it too. After the upgrade I did a clean install and I am in love with Windows 10.

PloxSource - July 31, 2015, 11:29 pm

Don't get me wrong, I like it but I have a bad computer as it is due to my good one breaking so i'd rather not have any complications with performance and drivers ETC until it's resolved. I reverted back to Windows 7 and still having problems with Ethernet drivers from installing Windows 10. Other than that, I like the layout, I think that the search bar could do an improvement as it doesn't search for the app you are looking for unless you type the full name.

Leeway - July 31, 2015, 11:35 pm

This is the same thing what happened to me I just love windows 7 and nothing else.

Ahri????? - July 31, 2015, 11:38 pm

Nothing went wrong on my end just a simple driver/app that needs to be updated for my laptop.

Esme - August 1, 2015, 12:05 am

Haven't had any of the issues you're experiencing, when I did a fresh install it automatically installed the correct network and graphic drivers. It's been stable for more than 2 days now.

Rapidoso - August 1, 2015, 3:37 am didn't have any problem while upgrading to win10 everything is running smooth for me :)