Thread: RSS doesn't work.

Limited Edition - August 1, 2015, 5:02 pm

I'm completely new to wordpress, I've put together a simple blog and made some posts just to get used to it. I'm just trying to get everything working correctly before I add infinite content to my site and try to grow a nice following.

<http://theinfoproject.com> If you click any of the RSS links in the right navigation, they don't work. I've searched for days now trying to figure it out but I've come across nothing helpful.

Can anybody help me?

What's wrong with it? Seems to be working fine to me.

<http://prntscr.com/7zu6tu> this is what I see.

Is this correct? To be honest, I feel like an idiot because I don't even know what an RSS feed is, I thought it was something that alerted users when new content/comments are posted?

Edit: I am a fucking idiot lol, it stands for "Rich Site Summary" I must of read a troll on a forum or some shit. I was under the impression that users clicked it and then got email alerts when new content was posted.

I'll leave the thread open so some of you can laugh at me and call me stupid lol.
