Thread: [\[NOTICE\] RAT/CRYPTER/KEYLOGGER DEVELOPERS](#)

PandaEyes - August 1, 2015, 5:37 pm

Hi!

It came to my attention that some random website is trying to sell different RATs, crypters and keyloggers, most likely without the developer's permission, at massively hiked prices. If your product is there I think you should take proper action.

Here's the website: rekings.com/products/rats/

I feel like this is a real shitty way to get advertisements. You should have just messaged the owners of said products.

Pretty sure this was already discussed here, he's buying real licenses of the real RAT's and selling for more money..scum af

You say it like he owns the site lol

Wait, aren't they reselling it? It seems fine to me. Owners get the money either way.

Regardless, the site itself looks dodgy as fuck

This thread was unneeded, pm them

I feel the thread is actually pretty needed. It lets the consumers know that they shouldn't be buying from there instead of just letting the devs know. I was actually looking at that site and was considering a purchase so thanks for this post, definitely won't be buying anything there.

I mean why would you buy shit there when they literally sell for example IM3 for like 2.5x the price

They list AlienSpy and a few rats that are considered closed here so to someone who doesn't know better, they have working versions of said rats and access to the AlienSpy rat.

It's in the OP, I can't post full links because I am a new member but the user above me just did. ?

Strayta - August 2, 2015, 2:49 am

They aren't cheaper! If anything they are more expensive

I believe you have misinterpreted the point of this post.

I contacted there support and asked why they charged so high, He tried to stay away from that topic. What I could get out of him was they will help you with issues you have because the coders wont help you.. But when I asked if they would help me set it up they said it costs 45$ extra.. Seems sketchy to me

They obviously are selling one of two things

- 1) cracked products.
- 2) purchasing from the owner of the actual products, and then reselling.

Their prices are overpriced as fuck though.
