Fast & Easy Double Dipping
~By PHAK3~

I've noticed that a lot of HF members seem to struggle with double dipping, therefore I've decided to release one of my private PSD's that I use, as well as a quick tutorial on how you execute a proper double dip without having to worry about your customer running away.

----What you need----Spoiler (Click to View)

PayPal

Windows XP/Vista/7/8/10 (You could do this on Linux using Wine)

Adobe Photoshop

A brain (A small one will do)

----Download----Spoiler (Click to View)

Download the PSD + Fonts (virustotal)

----About the PSD----Spoiler (Click to View)

The text has been aligned to stick right/left depending on position.

The different "payments" are placed in separate folders, so it's easy to keep track of where you are.

The clock (in the top right corner) is also an editable text-layer. (Using Arial)

The Hexcodes are not very important, but all of them are the original hex's used by paypal in the Android App.

----How to edit----Spoiler (Click to View)

Install the fonts that are included in the .rar file (instructions can be found inside the README.txt).

Then just use the text tool and select whatever text you want to edit.

You can also copy and move different folders to just make duplicate payments etc.

If you receive an error when opening the .PSD make sure that you've installed the fonts.

----Let's get started!----Spoiler (Click to View)

Now, I don't know how you pick the guys up, but this is the part that requires a brain, if you want to make sure that this guy isn't calling your bluff you need to act surprised and/or angry.

Think about how you've spoken to him during your previous conversation, from there on, decide how you want to act.

----Scenarios----

The nice approach

Spoiler (Click to View)

Quote:You: Uhm.. Did you just cancel the payment? :S

Him: No.

You: I'm sorry but Paypal says that you canceled the payment..

(send screenshot)

Him: But I didnt?

You: Well, I'm sure paypal will just refund it to you, since I didnt get it.. Sometimes this happens, just send a new payment and I'll send you your pics.

Him: Ok.

The angry approach

Spoiler (Click to View)

You: Seriously?! You trying to scam me for $xx ?!

Him: What?

(send screenshot)

You: How stupid do you think I am?! Wow..

Him: I didn't cancel the payment!!

You: Well, if so then you can just resend it since paypal will refund your money either way..?

The confused approach

Spoiler (Click to View)

You: Uhm.. Hold on

(wait a little & send screenshot)

You: What does this mean..? :S

Him: I don't know..

You: It says I havent received the payment.. :(

Him: I sent the money..?

You: Wait, I'll google.

You: It says on Paypal that the purchase has been refunded and the money has been sent back to you.

Him: I didn't!

You: It's ok I guess, just pay again then?

The blackhat approach

Spoiler (Click to View)

Lol.. Really? ? ?

Enjoy! ?

Nice to see someone finally make a tutorial on it. But you can complete the same thing with inspect element.

I just inspect element my paypal balance/his payment and change wording.. / Also do the same thing with amazon gc.

Fliiix - August 3, 2015, 1:11 pm

Once again, great stuff!!

This .PSD will make an e-whores life so much easier!

Do you plan on releasing any more videos btw? I loved your text-on-paper guide!

However, you'll appear much more legit if you send them what appears to be a screenshot from you cellphone rather than PC. But for amazon GC I'd stick with inspect element.

Cheers! :)

?Cyber - August 3, 2015, 1:13 pm

This could be incredibly amazing for people that accept payments via paypal.

Leeway - August 3, 2015, 1:17 pm

Enzio - August 3, 2015, 1:20 pm

Fiz? - August 3, 2015, 1:29 pm

French: "Double-dipping" = Tu mytho au mec en le faisant croire que tu n'as pas reçu le paiement comme sa il te l'envoie une fois de plus. Donc deux paiement de 15$ par exemple. Il faut que tu photoshop la photo ou bien inspection d'élément de la page.

English: Just explained him what it meant.

Press "T" and then press the text you want to edit, simple as that :)

Zetice - August 3, 2015, 2:17 pm

Why would you double dip on paypal? When they find out they can reverse the payment and paypal always sides with the buyers so you are fucked when that happens. Double dip on amazon instead...

PHAK3 - August 3, 2015, 2:31 pm

(Aug 3, 2015 01:29 PM)Fiz. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nice tutorial man thanks for posting this but I still fell that inspect element is a lot easier.

Well, we all have preferences. But once you've set the image up the way you like it, you'll have a really really authentic looking screenshot within a minute.

Or you could always double dip on both, quite frankly there's really not a lot of people who dare to start a dispute with paypal claiming that they tried to purchase nudes, even then, a lot of people won't even notice the double transactions anyways ;)

ZYZZ BRAHHH - August 3, 2015, 3:09 pm

Fucking good tutorial bro will use for sure.

CCardinal - August 3, 2015, 3:36 pm

Why bother with all this psd stuff when you can just inspect element or download the page and manually edit the html...?

PHAK3 - August 4, 2015, 3:44 am

(Aug 3, 2015 11:24 PM)Vigor Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why bother with all this psd stuff when you can just inspect element or download the page and manually edit the html...?

Simple, because it looks way more authentic and people are less likely to question the image. Also, it's slightly faster but either method can be done within a minute so it doesn't really matter.

y-y-youtoo - August 4, 2015, 5:42 am

Nice tutorial mate !! This'll help the beginners and probably also the masters ;

EDIT: Woah gg mate, you even thought about the time (right-upper corner)

EA7. - August 4, 2015, 5:45 am

nice tutorial.. thank youu

Uhhhhhhh it definitely does not look more authentic, anything you can do with Photoshop you can do with inspect element as far as this stuff goes.

PHAK3 - August 4, 2015, 9:50 am

(Aug 4, 2015 06:33 AM)Vigor Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Uhhhhhhh it definitely does not look more authentic (...) Please, send me a more authentic looking image than this, using inspect element only.

You can't inspect element inside the PayPal app, using inspect element for a responsive layout (e.g toggling PayPal's responsive mode) requires you to change the pixel-aspect ration from 1->2/3 which results in a 50% or 33% scale image that you'd then have to import to a downscaled overlay in photoshop.

If you want the images to look like screenshots from your phone, then this is the way to go. This is simply a precaution if you're milking a somewhat competent player on Kik that knows the difference between a PC and a phone.

But by all means, I'm not forcing anyone to use the PSD, feel free to inspect element if that floats your boat better. I'm just providing a more simple and authentic solution for whomever is interested.

Vigor - August 4, 2015, 2:07 pm

Indeed, if you're using the app it looks like the way to go. I just think it's easier to inspect element and then send a screenshot. Ain't nobody got time fo' dat.

PHAK3 - August 4, 2015, 3:43 pm

At least now people have 2 options too chose from ?

Vigor - August 4, 2015, 5:10 pm

This is true plus maybe ppl will learn something from this. Props to you.

iReflex - August 5, 2015, 3:37 am

Im not sure if you made that on photoshop but if you did, could you make one for iphones too? My ewhore uses a visible Iphone in her pics. Maybe Ill just say Im using a tablet or something if you cant do it

You're better off using "Inspect Element" for Amazon GC's. There's a few guides on youtube showing you how to.

Good luck! :)

BlueRabbits - September 4, 2015, 11:49 am

Well, pretty interesting. But if you have a little brain and you want to succeed in something, you just think of a way, and make it possible. I never double dipped someone, but i'll try. I'm just to lazy to match all this things up.. Hah.

Carpe Diem - September 4, 2015, 6:04 pm

Great guide OP. I never know how to double dip on paypal. Actually, if you edit all the names and payments you can even triple or quadra dip with this method
