

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: weird incident

EbonCipher - August 12, 2015, 10:09 am

So i tried my rat on my cousin and all of sudden 2 people from the US appeared? I couldn't do anything, but they were just there, and after 1-2 mins they disappear again?. What the actual fuck?. lmao.

IHasBrains - August 12, 2015, 10:47 am

Maybe honeypots. If you can, uninstall them. Leave them alone if you can't.

Bad C0d3 - August 12, 2015, 10:50 am

Maybe some online sandbox service

Yetiii - August 12, 2015, 11:25 am

Previous clients/Slaves? Maybe the RAT you are using is unstable

Leeway - August 12, 2015, 11:26 am

I am guessing they are honey pots I would also suggest uninstalling them.

Esme - August 12, 2015, 1:48 pm

I'd say just uninstall them. Where have you been scanning?

ze-slade - August 12, 2015, 1:51 pm

Have you only spread your rat to your cousin?

k?'rlzm? - August 12, 2015, 1:54 pm

Why would you want to RAT family lol?

What DNS are u using?

Check out my sig for a good spreading method

EbonCipher - August 12, 2015, 1:57 pm

(Aug 12, 2015 01:54 PM)Xaos™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why would you want to RAT family lol?

What DNS are u using?

Check out my sig for a good spreading method
testing it on my cousin. I asked for permission before i did anything.

using duckdns

Armada - August 12, 2015, 2:07 pm

Firstly stay away from Duck DNS.

They are Known to Honey Pot our Binaries now. SEE THIS THREAD FOR INFO

But in relation to your question, if both of the clients appeared identical some rats are known to Double log clients in to the console, one of them could have simply been a shadow\ghost connection to the original.

Otherwise it is likely DuckDNS's Honeypot analyzing your binary and reporting it to AV vendors.?

Strayta - August 12, 2015, 2:12 pm

Don't use duckdns man. That is probably why you got 2 more

EbonCipher - August 12, 2015, 2:15 pm

(Aug 12, 2015 02:12 PM)Gargle Cum Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't use duckdns man. That is probably why you got 2 more

Which one do you prefer?.