So, I recently had an idea for my signature selling thread, <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4880833>, but someone told me that this fell under a "dynamic signature". I couldn't find out if this was explicitly against the rules, but I think omni said that he's against it. Does anyone know where he said so/ if it's in the rules?

And if it is against the rules, what's the difference between what I would do, and the signatures that people wear that say how many people give a dam/a server stat signature?

I don't believe your signature is violating any rules.

A dynamic signature changes everytime you reload a page. You selling signatures or selling a spot for one doesn't do any of that.

The signature having animations doesn't make it dynamic. There's a difference. You're fine.
