

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Best Anti Virus and Malware Removal for ME?

DannTodd - August 14, 2015, 11:18 am

I do alot of gaming and tend to download and install a lot of files. I'm not stupid af though i know whats good and whats bad... I'm just hoping some whitehats can give me there opinions ?

Specs:

Operating System

Windows 7 Home Premium 64-bit SP1

CPU

Intel Core i5 @ 3.50GHz 32 °C

Haswell 22nm Technology

RAM

16.0GB Dual-Channel DDR3 @ 665MHz (9-9-9-24)

Motherboard

ASUSTeK COMPUTER INC. B85-PRO GAMER (SOCKET 1150) 28 °C

Graphics

Viseo243D (1920x1080@60Hz)

3072MB ATI AMD Radeon HD 7900 Series (Gigabyte)

Yes i am willing to pay for it.

unopie - August 14, 2015, 11:18 am

Malwarebytes and either Kaspersky or Eset

Compulsive - August 14, 2015, 11:19 am

MalwareBytes is always my Go-to Malware Removal.

DannTodd - August 14, 2015, 11:23 am

(Aug 14, 2015 11:18 AM)unopie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Malwarebytes and either Kaspersky or Eset
Exactly what i was thinking, is it worth to buy LIFETIME Malware bytes? I will buy that anti virus for sure tho... Amazon best place to get it or nah?

unopie - August 14, 2015, 11:24 am

(Aug 14, 2015 11:23 AM)DannTodd Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Exactly what i was thinking, is it worth to buy LIFETIME Malware bytes? I will buy that anti virus for sure tho... Amazon best place to get it or nah?
You can probably just get malwarebyte codes from g2a.

DannTodd - August 14, 2015, 11:27 am

(Aug 14, 2015 11:24 AM)unopie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can probably just get malwarebyte codes from g2a. G2A Sell it?? Oooo sick. Thanks man - just bought a fck loads of parts for my pc expecting it to speed things up just seems a little sluggish for a sick build... People telling me to reinstall windows and shit...

SIM-2223238 - August 14, 2015, 11:28 am

360 Security and Malwarebytes, stick with that and you will be the masterrace

Malwarebytes codes are free btw.

DannTodd - August 14, 2015, 11:35 am

(Aug 14, 2015 11:28 AM)Aggron Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 360 Security and Malwarebytes, stick with that and you will be the masterrace

Malwarebytes codes are free btw.

Kaspersky or 360? Tut me how to get dem codes for free??

Agent Shark - August 14, 2015, 7:14 pm

(Aug 14, 2015 11:24 AM)unopie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can probably just get malwarebyte codes from g2a.

Never seen MBAM on g2a. Especially because it's meant for games only.

Jackie Chun - August 14, 2015, 7:25 pm

Might I suggest Windows Defender lol? Especially if you are gaming, Windows 10 is a must have. Privacy concerns to hell, it's worth the fps imo. Plus the build in anti virus has been having the same detection ratio as malwarebytes from my personal experience.

Agent Shark - August 15, 2015, 2:00 pm

(Aug 14, 2015 07:25 PM)Jackie Chun Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Might I suggest Windows Defender lol? Especially if you are gaming, Windows 10 is a must have. Privacy concerns to hell, it's worth the fps imo. Plus the build in anti virus has been having the same detection ratio as malwarebytes from my personal experience.

For a typical user who just browses the Internet and games, I'd use Windows Defender with MBAM.

However, if the OP does torrent and other various activities (only an assumption), I'd advise the OP to get better protection. Windows 10 privacy issues aren't entirely 100% and my logic is: we've been monitored for such a long time. It'd be foolish to say this is Microsoft's first act of invasion of privacy.

Strayta - August 15, 2015, 2:00 pm

Malware bytes is probable the best for you man

unopie - August 15, 2015, 2:04 pm

It wasn't too long ago that I could find a malwarebytes key on g2a. You could probably find some on pastebin.

Machiavellian101 - August 17, 2015, 5:33 pm

(Aug 14, 2015 11:18 AM)DannTodd Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I do alot of gaming and tend to download and install a lot of files. I'm not stupid af though i know whats good and whats bad... I'm just hoping some whitehats can give me there opinions ?

Specs:

Operating System

Windows 7 Home Premium 64-bit SP1

CPU

Intel Core i5 @ 3.50GHz 32 °C

Haswell 22nm Technology

RAM

16.0GB Dual-Channel DDR3 @ 665MHz (9-9-9-24)

Motherboard

ASUSTeK COMPUTER INC. B85-PRO GAMER (SOCKET 1150) 28 °C

Graphics

Viseo243D (1920x1080@60Hz)

3072MB ATI AMD Radeon HD 7900 Series (Gigabyte)

Yes i am willing to pay for it.

For a premium version I'd go for like some others have said ESET or Kaspersky. MalwareBytes is not an Antivirus; it's an anti-malware and is still good for protection.

As for free versions MSE for Windows 7 is still a good AV and so is Avast.

Oh and one other thing and this if you have recently purchased a Motorcycle and bought all the protective equipment that won't mean anything if ride it recklessly.