Thread: | HELP DESK | Purse.io & How to use it!

BTCEXchangez - August 18, 2015, 5:29 am

I've been using Purse.io for quite a while and it is a brilliant site to use if you want to exchange your AGC's safely. There is no risk of you getting scammed and it's overall easy to use.

So for any new members using this site, if any questions simply reply here and I will answer it for you as soon as possible!

Questions Answered

Can't proceed with the order

Spoiler \(Click to View\) (Aug 18, 2015 05:39 AM)SGUdyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) <http://prntscr.com/860i6n>

It doesn't let me further. Why?It's because it charges you more than $15 due to shipping.

Try other shipping option and if that still pops out then you can't buy it.

Purse.io explained

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

(Aug 18, 2015 06:17 AM)Nemotheman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How do i use purse.io? and how does it work?

Well everything is pretty simple.

Register on the site and find a deal.

If you have like $150 amazon balance on your account you find a deal that will cost you that much.

Click on the item you are buying and it will redirect you to the amazon site. You select the gift shipping adress (it will be provided) and after paying you copy the order id and paste it back on purse.io (you will also see a box where you do that).

So then you are done on your side.

You get the Bitcoins straight in your escrow when you pay, and they will be in your wallet once the user confirms that the item delivered.

Effective Rate

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

(Aug 18, 2015 06:47 AM)Xcrypter33 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have a doubt about the "Effective Rate" that appears in the list "Earn Bitcoin". What does it mean?The higher the rate the better the deal it is.

When you click on an order you will see how much BTC you will get, so copy that and paste it on preev.com to see how much you will get.

The rates are like $39-42 for a $50 card. But for higher amounts it can be even better.

Short Delivery Adress

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

(Aug 18, 2015 07:25 AM)HackerPuppy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello,

Very nice idea, to have a thread such this here.

I have one simple question. I tried purse.io once, but I was presented with a very short delivery address.

I didn't understand how add such short address under my amazon profile, and I left purse.io.

Could you explain more on this topic please? The address was something like 3-4 words without number or street, I was very confused.

Is it USA address or something? In Europa we have longer address at least "Street bla bla bla, town bla bla, post number bla bla, country bla bla" Don't bother on that, it is just a note on purse.io. When you go to the order page on Amazon you will select the "Gift Address" which includes the buyers full address.

Selling AGC's directly

After you are Seller Level 1 or Buyer Level 3 you can contact their support and ask for them to unlock the option so that you can sell it directly to them.

Many more in the thread so feel free to read!

And OP it is simple to use it when you make a new id on purse.io you have to click on the earn option and then just buy the product which is less then $50 (for more need to up your level) and then put the order number when you buy the product and as soon as your product will be delivered you get the BTC in your purse.io wallet and then you can send it to your wallet.

(correct me if i am wrong)

Thanks, sadly its really risky. It might take 2-3 Days if your lucky to get your Bitcoins. It can take more, you might have to create a dispute if hes not releasing so you have to wait until resolved etc etc. Bitcoin is pretty unstable compared to other currencies so you have to pretty much take a big risk in hoping your not losing any value in the meantime.

Thanks for this thread tho.

Thanks for this thread tho.If you want to exchange it to Btc instantly then Purse.io is not for you. As I said it is completely safe and you can always look at the buyers score/rating before the transaction is made. Sorry, ive probably made myself sound unclear. I meant to explain that its rather risky due to the Bitcoin Market, rather than Purse.io's buyer & Sellers safety.

in 2-4 days alot can change in the Bitcoin market, compared to other currencys, its definitely unstable.

In short more or less: You buy the things for e.g. 10 Bitcoins, which would be worth for e.g. 1000$. After you buy it for 1000$, you have to wait a couple days. At the end of the for example 4 days, you got 10 Bitcoins. But those arent worth 1000$ anymore, just 500$ due to unstable bitcoin markets.

Obviously all my examples are rather unrealistic but you get the point. Wouldn't suggest to do this on larger sums.

I love your input on this, thank you.

? lol no. When you click the purchase order on Purse it already contains the address (which is hidden for obvious privacy reasons). You don't have to type any address whatsoever using Purse... I had the same error as you, when i proceeded to check out it took me back to that page, but I fixed it by just going back in the page you showed in the screenshot.

For the billing address, select your address. You won't get papers or anything, it is just there for Amazon to know, any additional fund is paid by the receiver of the package not you.

(Oct 7, 2015 11:26 AM)Fi?h Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are risks. If u buy someone a gift card, they can fuck u overNot really, if you pay for the order and receive a confirmation that the item was delivered, you are done on your side. The other person can pretend and lie about the order, but with confirmation from Amazon on your side you contact purse and they release the funds to your wallet. Again, these situations rarely happen and to avoid them just find people with a good "positive smile" rating.

That first part you wrote "Can't proceed with the order", it's not because you don't have enough money on GC balance, it's because you haven't attached credit or debit card to amazon, and you can't buy anything with GC balance until you do that, even if you don't have enough money on GC balance, if you order more expensive item it will be deducted from your debit/credit card

That's wrong. You can buy everything (except agc) off Amazon with your gift balance. It will ask you for a credit card only if the cost is over your balance for example if you buy an item for $200 and you have $210 in your gift balance. If the shipping costs around $20 the balance that is over your gift balance, you will have to pay with a card.

Another reason on why you need a card is for Amazon prime and other amazon promotional offers but that's about it as I know.

Please guys, i need some help.

I Have 100$ on Amazon (e-gift) but i redeemed it already. From what i understood i can still use the Purse.io

My question is: Does it work also on Reddit or there we must use the codes (without the redeem)?

Also, by using Purse.io we get BTC and i heard that we can then transfer the amount to our bank account. Can someone please tell me how? I've searched but found nothing, if someone could tell me how to proceed in that matter i'd be much appreciated.

Thank you.

Thank you. As you redeemed the code, it is permanently tied to your account. The only solution for this is to either buy something on Amazon, exchange it for Bitcoins on Purse.io or sell your account. After you receive Bitcoins in your Purse.io wallet you can withdraw the money to another Bitcoin wallet but that's about it.

If you don't have one, then no problems as you can use the site as your own wallet (receive and send Bitcoins).

But I'd recommend you go with normal trading by buying stuff for people - you get reputation plus better rates (not much difference but still).

It's not because of you, they stop buying directly after they get enough cards. I remember selling them 50 cards and they couldn't accept it all from me lol.

But about other method I found - I just happen to stumble upon a guy who buys the cards and pays me in person.
