

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Looking to start a forum with someone, i have a domain and hosting!

Medicinal - August 19, 2015, 8:49 pm

Ok so we are already go, need a forum partner and an idea, i have purchased the domain "rushforums.com" off of my friends friend. Thank you for reading!

Sorry about the LQ!

Blueyourmyboy - August 19, 2015, 8:50 pm

What would the partner need to bring to the table?

Medicinal - August 19, 2015, 8:56 pm

(Aug 19, 2015 08:50 PM)Blueyourmyboy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What would the partner need to bring to the table?

Help building the community, setting up the forums and what not with me, will get 50% of the earnings and 50% of the ownership towards the community.

Blue Shadow - August 19, 2015, 9:13 pm

I may be interested, could we pm about this?

Vibe - August 20, 2015, 8:05 am shot me a pm with some more info about what you are looking for in a partner.

SamPhisher - August 21, 2015, 1:40 pm

A domain and hosting are the easiest things to get; anyone can get them in a few minutes. An idea is worth more though, it makes or breaks your site.

That, plus the fact that you're pretty much new here sets off all kinds of alarms for me. Not trying to be paranoid here, but how would one know they could trust you not to kick them out once things are rolling?

Nasyr - August 22, 2015, 4:01 am

Just put this on another post but here.

The questions I have for you are as follows. What forum software are you using? MyBB, vBulletin etc.

How much experience with that software do you have?

What's the forum based around?

Have you ever owned a forum before?

What is your overall goal here?

Do you actually plan to spend hours developing?

