hey HF

i wanted to make one of my programs that i have been coding for some time open source and wanted some feedback from the community so i have uploaded it onto GitHub: https : // github.com/ ali22asghar/ qwikreply-project. git (remove gaps) it may not be perfect and i have not really used Github before so i dont know whether you can actually open the file in visual studio this can only be run in VS 10 i think

but i would appreciate any feedback (Positive)

You should write a separate class for things like this. It's dirty to do it the way you're doing it. Also, UDP isn't really a good idea here, but since it's LAN I guess it's okayyyyyyyish.
