Thread: [Old version of kik not working on bluestacks \[Help\]](#)

Wired? - August 22, 2015, 7:53 pm

I am using v7 of kik on bluestacks so that the fake camera app will work for live pics. My issue is that I was using the newest version of kik, then uninstalled it and installed v7 apk, and no one can chat with me at all. I have verified this by making a kik on my phone and trying to add my ewhore kik on bluestacks and nothing appears like it did on the new version.

I am wondering if anyone can help me fix this, I had like 200+ dudes adding me constantly and now i'm losing them all probably, but most of them want live images and I need the old kik to do that.

Edit: Confirmed can't send messages either, it connects to the internet because I just made that new account and it sees it to chat with it, but no messages get through.

Thanks.

Just for anyone else who still may be able to help, I have reinstalled bluestacks and I'm realizing now that all my messages are stuck on 'S', and I am receiving messages from people, but only some and they are very very few. It seems like a connection issue but I have perfect internet and it was working perfectly before. Could it be an issue with kiks servers at the moment?

Update: I think it's working now, some people are getting my messages, but I still cannot send or receive messages from my alt account on my phone.
