

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Prestashop developer

Sobriety - August 24, 2015, 5:52 am

Hello,

My partners and I are in the situation that none of us knows how to code/edit when it comes to Prestashop. We have a theme, and will be needing a highly efficient, professional and relatively cheap developer. The job will be editing, custom coding of plugins etc. Everything is paid for, and you will be listed as my main developer when something needs to be done.

Requirements:

- *Be able to do almost anything when it comes to Prestashop. Both frontend aswell as backend.
- *Be professional - don't abandon work, finish the jobs in a timely manner etc.
- *Be able to understand us properly, and be willing to talk over Skype to discuss the jobs.
- *You must provide us with a receipt for the work.

It is preferred that your timezone is GMT+1, although it's not required.

hyperhydration - August 28, 2015, 5:29 pm

I don't have direct experience with Prestashop... but I do have extensive skills in web development covering everything from complete website coding top to bottom and custom web applications, api, sql, php javascript... you name it pretty much. I have professional skills in many other shop related web components: Zoo, Mijoshop, Shopfiles, JoomShopping.

I have looked into prestashop and have determined I could quickly pickup your requirements.

I always complete my work in the most effective and fashioned manner.

I speak native English.

Receipts: Yes, I run a specialist web services company that is orientated around api authentication scripting. The same company I run to complete dynamic projects to their full-potential.

I would love to discuss this further if you're still interested?

My TimeZone is also GMT+1.

Something cool... I recently 2nd place in a web development skills competition held across the UK.