Thread: Reputation Purge

Omniscient - August 29, 2015, 12:03 pm

I plan on running an immense purge of all reputations from Closed member accounts.

Not only will all their reputations be removed but also every reputation they have given.

Then a complete reputation recount will ensue. Going to work on it this week but I'm giving a heads up to everyone about it. This is something I've wanted to do for a long time. When I see member reputations and that dozens of reps are from closed accounts it really annoys me.

So expect the purge sometime in September.

Thank you.

Maxi - August 29, 2015, 12:04 pm

Seems like a great feature, thanks for improving the boards.

.Reef - August 29, 2015, 12:04 pm

Awesome. Would like to see how my rep is affected.

I'm surprised you didn't do this sooner.

It's been something that's come up more than once.

My Dixie Normous - August 29, 2015, 12:05 pm

What about the scammer reps they have given? they shouldn't be removed imo.

Coton Pker - August 29, 2015, 12:05 pm

woo let the repocalypse begin.

it shouldn't matter at all really, but prepare for the PMs and threads.

Mr Kewl - August 29, 2015, 12:05 pm

Heavy changes in numbers. Do you think it will serve the purpose you're trying to serve?

Tonight - August 29, 2015, 12:07 pm

Sounds like a good idea to me. The worst are the nonsense negs from now closed accounts.

I have a hunch I'll lose a couple hundred reputations from this though and I don't mind.

MrJamieMcC - August 29, 2015, 12:07 pm

I think this "Hack Forum Purge" is a good idea. For me personally REP on a profile helps user identify if other users can be trusted in trades and stuff like that. Good idea eightz - August 29, 2015, 12:08 pm

Oh dude, omfg. Yes, a lot of my reps are from closed accounts.

Roger Waters - August 29, 2015, 12:09 pm

This is a good and bad thing, sucks for the members who have earned a couple thousand reputation points, but good for the people who have negative reputations from trolls who were butt hurt when they got repfucked and gave everyone negs, and then were closed eventually.

?Average - August 29, 2015, 12:10 pm

Amazing news, will gain and loose a few rep.

'An0ny - August 29, 2015, 12:10 pm

Would gain me +9, not sure what i'd loose though..

SIM-1166170 - August 29, 2015, 12:11 pm

You should also tick that box on the group page for closed accounts to receive reps, I don't think they really need to be receiving anymore

Most likely other members have "scammer reps" already on that member so wouldn't make a difference if the closed account's "scammer rep" was removed off the "scammer".

You have to have made the scam report to rep them with it and if your account is now closed you obviously did something worse than whomever "scammed you".

Realizm - August 29, 2015, 12:15 pm

Yes. I know some legit reps will be removed but so will many badly given reps by trolls who have closed accounts. I think it will be a decent balance but it will also clear up some database space and make rep pages look neater without all the closed account reps.

I might even decide to purge all reps past a certain date...like all reps older than 2 years. That would force reps to be more current for users.

However at the end of the day it's your call, I just had to speak my mind :P

Reputation isn't really a level of credibility imho. There are tons of members who have reputation from when penny giveaways were a thing and reputation is more or less just a number.

Fudster - August 29, 2015, 12:24 pm

Oh wow. I am about to lose 30+ reps

But yeah Omni not a bad idea. closed members opinions are not accurate all the time.

Coton Pker - August 29, 2015, 12:25 pm

so fuck it, k0 the "legit seller" reps and make people get traceable vouches.

SIM-1166170 - August 29, 2015, 12:26 pm

And the rep whores have started to complain already.

I think the 2 years is a good idea, it will force rep whores to stay active, and it will weed out a lot of old penny giver away reps.

I agree with this. Although this would not affect me as i have been on a year. It seems people who have spent time to earn reputation and built it up through successful trades would be the main victims of this. Of course its down to you but doesnt seem like a good idea. Maybe just removing reps from closed accounts.

Grievous????? - August 29, 2015, 12:33 pm

No point having rep if the account is closed.

Realizm - August 29, 2015, 12:33 pm

Oh damn if every closed account's rep gets deleted then I'll have lost like 40+ rep ?

I didn't realize how many people have repped me and then gotten closed until I just looked. It's kinda crazy that like... 10% or more of my rep is from closed accounts.

Have to say though, I'm glad this is happening.

Reputation means a lot here else it wouldn't be here at all.

As for reputation making a difference in regards to the marketplace, I agree. I think until the vouch system for the marketplace is done, the 2+ yr old rep should be kept. When the vouch system is live, reputation won't mean anything to buyers/sellers and it'll just be a number as it should be.

Trolls with closed account is good point. So people with closed account does make sense.

But if you're putting a date restrictions, I don't think its a good idea. Because people have contributed to the forum and those reps are like a trophy for them and a good memory associated with the site, psychologically speaking.

I'll give you an example : Imagine IbruteForce with like 10-12 reps? All the contribution he played in the history of HF might just get lost. :3

Majority of those are from closed accounts that went inactive and were subsequently closed after 6 months of not signing in.

I'm not complaining per se, but I'd be lying if I said I wouldn't miss being above my 2k mark.

That holds a lot of sentimental value on the site to me. Being the 16th most reputed member on all of HF is a really neat thing, especially after achieving that through legitimate business transactions on the site.

Then again, if I'm getting worked up over a number I've built up over the years, maybe I've forgotten the real purpose of using the forum for what it is.

Other than it keeping your reps "current", I don't really see the point behind it. People can just look at your rep and know when you got said rep, how long ago, etc.

The vouch system has been spoken about for few years now, it's basically a reputation system that is shown in the marketplace, People say "Vouch for this" on threads and if you view the thread on the marketplace, you see "0" where the reputation is suppose to be... (Bare in mind, only in the marketplace) you can see this... So when the system is finished, it will be like "+1" vouch to the seller instead of writing it on the thread, If that makes sense at all.

Actually separating the reputation system from the Marketplace allows for a more cognitive approach to member interaction. The reputation system will truly represent site reputation instead of the ad-hoc marketplace reputation which it is now and was never meant to be.

Almost always, forums' largest "attraction" is the marketplace. And this is actually a good thing. Rep is used to determine if you are 'trusted' which is stupid. Vouch system will move all the marketplace related rep over to the 'vouch rep' and then rep will be purely forum rep and how you're viewed as a member on the forum or how popular you are.

But seriously, on topic...

This is probably the better alternative than a reputation reset that you mentioned a few years back because the more current reputations will be organized better after the purge.

chrisman0091 - August 29, 2015, 1:36 pm

Sadly I'll be losing about 50 rep, but I do think this is a great idea. I'm not too fond the 2year idea personally, mainly for business reasons(not including myself, I haven't dealt on HF until more recently so it wouldn't effect me).

Mixed thoughts on this.

A lot of legit reps will be removed but also a lot of LQ troll reps.

(Aug 29, 2015 01:25 PM)iHydra Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree. A rep reset would remove all the marketplace rep and allow for maybe more rep features(like pre-made rep that Omni was thinking of doing in the past).

A rep reset would be a terrible move because HQ users who deserve their high rep, have worked hard for their high rep, will look no different than the LQ scammer with -500 rep. It would be a repfuck for everyone.

Plus the rules state that they will never reset the rep for any reason whatsoever, so it's very unlikely to happen

This rep purge would be good but a complete rep reset would be disasterous to the community (a scammer changes their name and can't be differenciated from the most HQ user on the forum)

I'm fine with closed accounts having their -rep removed although I feel +rep should stay for memory sake from members who have self closed/moved on. I've met a lot of cool people here over the years I've been here and a lot of them have since moved on. I like taking a trip back in time to see some of the people I used to interact with.

A purge of rep based on time is a bit eh as well, I like revisiting older rep from 2009-2013 to see who I used to talk to and what I was interested in at different stages of the site. With this I'd only be able to see back to 2013 when I wasn't as active.

I think it is good idea to clean the users rep's, but I personally like to see the rep's closed accounts have because it kind of helps give an idea of why it might have been closed and it kind of serves as like a "shaming" when I see the closed account with -200Rep. It is just fun to see how good/bad the closed account was to the community before their closure.
