It's cheap. It works. Can't seem to connect to the Switzerland location though, USA & Japan work fine. Haven't tested Australia.

Port forwarding via the web panel is pretty straight forward and I didn't have any issues with it.

Looks like a continuation of Hide&SeekVPN, pricing is similar and so are the locations/client. Hopefully the DB doesn't get dumped this time.

Overall it's definitely worth the money, especially with the current pricing. Will you be taking suggestions for future locations anytime soon?

Hide&Seek DB did not get dumped, it was just deleted/lost by the new owner during a merge.

Horus is similar to H&S although everything works perfectly, better client, more locations, faster locations, working port forwarding. Sadly 2 of the locations are down right now as you already pointed out but they'll be back up again shortly or replaced with two new ones. ?

You will not get the speed. VPNs are not like that. That's the maximum and you can only use as much as your internet provider currently is. VPNs will never make it faster, never. In any case, it most likely will make it slower.

It's encryption of your IP, not boosting internet.

Going to say what I've said to other VPN hosts

I'm honestly sick of VPN solutions out there on the market, compared to most people, I don't need a VPN for anonimity but for re-routing purposes, I play a fighting game professionally and participate in huge prizepools as one of the top 8 players of the game.

Over the past year I've used probably over 8-10 "Tier 1" VPN's, many such as PureVPN, ExpressVPN, HMA, IpVanish, VyprVPN and the list goes on. None of them has been able to provide a stable connection over more than 1 hour, they all efficiently re-route and lower latency, however packet loss, time-outs and unreliable speeds ruin the reward of lower latency.

I wonder, will your service be able to provide the same latency (It's only 10 less latency, due to routing issues from my ISP I'm at 140 instead of 124, which is 2 frames difference in a fighting game) However actually have a stable connection that'll last longer than hours without packet loss, if so, this is a blessing.

You will most likely get the same speed as your current internet, if not a little bit low.

Thanks

http://www.firstavatar.com/images/2015/10/10/second3.png - Germany Speed Test. Our server will be slower than your original connection but you should be able to get speeds around 750mb+ hopefully.

Setup was really easy, you'll get a folder with 2 .exe's

One is the VPN Application and one is a tap fixer.

Setup was also really easy.

As you can see, the speed is very very good.

The only thing i don't like is, that my real DNS is still leaking, but im sure that this will be fixed
(Could be my pc causing this though)

Thats no problem for me.

For the price, you get a high quality VPN.

8/10 points from me (lol)

EDIT: The folder which you get

I tried the VPN from my PC. It works fine here, 100% protected. Incoming and outgoing connections are going through the VPN connection.

It must be something with your network connection / PC.

Thanks

This VPN doesnt work for my Network. They only allow UDP

They dont offer VPN Connections via TCP ...should be mentioned on the first site. TCP is actually a must have... (i know it doesnt matter much for reliablity in this case, but some networks allow only TCP)

Are you using the correct password? The password for the VPN is different from the one you use for billing, it can be found in the "new account information" email.

If this doesn't solve your issue please run the "tap-fixer.exe" that came with the download. ?

Just bought the VPN but unfortunately I'd have to say I'm not pleased with the product. I followed the instructions and each time I try to connect to a server It says Unable to connect. Tried several servers..

EDIT: I was able to fix the problem by using the tapper .exe that was included. I bought this VPN so I could use the American servers but I noticed It was slow as hell. I've never witnessed a VPN this slow I was downloading a 1.1MB file from Adobe and It was going at 50kb/s and I tried a speedtest myself but It didn't connect or something. I am very dissappointed as the speed test showed me

1GB while I can't reach 1mb

Two questions please

1. How do I turn off automatic invoicing? I will be away for a few weeks and the last time that happened and my service expired I was slammed with a late payment fee on the auto invoice.

2. Can I use Horus VPN with an smtp client or should I just get a vps/rdp?
How does the port forwarding go?

FidelCashFlow - January 11, 2016, 1:59 pm

Wish this vpn supported TCP... Anyway to get this added? Purchased this vpn primarily for minecraft but minecraft multiplayer uses TCP which is not supported with Horus...

SourMan - January 11, 2016, 4:43 pm

Just bought the vpn, works fast as charm. However portforwarding is not working for me.
I know how to PF, so i don't think it is on my end, however i might be wrong. Can anyone help?

I connect to server > go to CMD > type Ipconfig > Select the internal IP for the VPN and not my connection > e.g 10.8.0.x > says port is open on PF page > Open a port listener > go to Canyouseeme.org > Not open, connection timed out.

Firstly are you using the correct password for the VPN? The VPN password is different from your billing one. Please check the email titled "new account information" for your password.

Secondly, if the password wasn't the issue, please run the "tap-fixer.exe" found in the VPN download.

About your issue, I have checked everything from our side and everything is perfect. Portforward works for rest of the customers. As it doesn't work for you, it must be an error with your network / PC.

You have to troubleshoot it as I have no control over your network / PC.

You'll need to download the Mac copy of OpenVPN and use the .OVPN configs provided most likely - unless you were asking about their client.

The .crt is build into the .ovpn files. You can extract the part from <ca> to </ca> (including <ca> </ca>) and put it in a separate .crt file. That works for me.

But I agree, it would be a lot easier if they supply separate crt files.

And I still haven't been able to get Portforwarding to work on my linux machine.

Please kindly be patient. All VPN servers will be working within 12 hours (Within 29th March)

We are currently undergoing a heavy server upgrade, hence the VPN is down.

Once we are done with the server upgrade, your connections will be even more fast.

UPDATE: All of our servers are back up and running! Thank you for your patience!

I purchased Lifetime License of HorusVPN two days ago, I have PM'd the owner @ArtMachine severally, I even created a support ticket on the website which has remained unanswered asking about instructions on how to use the port forwarding features as i have tried using it severally but it doesn't work.

I connected the VPN, went to CMD got the internal IP starting with 10.8.0.... put it in the browser link h.t.t.p://horusvpn.com/billing/ptfw.php and the port I want to forward, it shows port is opened but when i go to canyouseeme.org it says connection refused.

If this feature is not working (as its the selling point of the VPN) @ArtMachine should let me know and refund me my money so i can go purchase a portforwarding VPN that works
