upgrade to leet and people with help you out.

you tell him a story and he'll pay for sure if your story is good enough. hope it helped.

Well the best milking strategy is coplimenting them a lot. Put lots of smileies, have small talk about emotions etc

Then when you ve stoped talking for 20 mins throw in a really bad event that just happened, for instance your mom called you and said that you re a whore and you felt really bad and that you need to stop doing that thing with the pics but you cant because you mismanaged your financials then ask him desperately to help you because you dont know where else to turn and he looks like the greatest person you ve met the last 6 months and the previous one was a female teacher in college.

The above is just a story I just made. The more you try to create stories the more dramatic the effect they will have on your customer.
