That's your problem not mine as I am not the one in the lost here, don't act tough with me son as you'll never see your money ever again if not. You just causes a bunch of issues with that refund, so you will pay the price of waiting until this is figured out as you sent a refund to a close PayPal account. You are at fault here since I indeed sent your money and you refunded without my concern that is not accessible by nobody. I don't give a flying fuck about your opinion right now, you screwed up so now you can wait even longer. If you are not happy and want to get dirty about this, it'll be my pleasure but you won't like it.

The term of closed when talking about stealth PayPals is that it's no longer accessible.

It's a stealth PP, you know exactly what kind of account it is since you run a stresser yourself.

Stop acting stupid to cover up your fuck up since you're just pissing me off even more for your stupidity and about to drop this for your own mistake.

Let me quote this before you remove your post to start claiming I didn't send you anything.
