Thread: Ardamax Keylogger doesn't send any logs to my email

Darak - September 12, 2015, 10:11 am

I have used Ardamax Keylogger before and it used to work like a charm. Now after 2 years, I'm back into keyloggers. I am currently using the version 4.3.9.

During the remote keylogger setup, everything seems to be fine. I also typed my Gmail and I successfully received the test delivery email.

Here's the problem: After creating the keylogger, I tested it by running it on my own computer but it won't send any logs to my email. WTF?

I haven't crypted or spoofed it, by the way.

Any ideas/suggestions?

I have the same issue. I get the rat and everything when I click it twice to test on my pc it does not send logs to email or ftp. I tried putting it in a Pendrive and installing the RAT on another pc to test but still no logs are sent.

did you test it on the same computer you made it on? or did you move it to another PC?

That is strange. If your setup is correct and as you say the test mail was successful it should work. One reason I can think of is mis-configuring the time interval for mail send. Another one could be that keylogger itself is not working properly or logging the strokes due to a number of reasons.

Yea. I had the same issue. The self monitoring worked fine, sent logs. But it won't send logs from another pc.

This is a 3 year old thread. I would suggest getting a new logger tbh.

Go for Sentinal as Damien (aka Pankaj) runs a fabulous keylogger for begginers course ;)

I don't run Sentinel (well, at least not the entirety of it) anymore, and as far as I know J.P Morgan (Pankaj) isn't involved in it as well :)
