I want someone to tell me when they see something like that that they think it's a clock. Especially if you're an English teacher and you hear that device beeping in class, in a school full of students. It was the right thing for the teacher to call for police in my opinion.

I find it hilarious that since it turned out to be a clock everyone is supporting Muslims for no reason all of a sudden. Muslim is just like Christianity, Buddhism, etc. They are all religions. If his name was John Smith, a Catholic, and he was as white as snow I'd still the cops on his ass because it's better to be safe than sorry; I wouldn't want to see another news story about 20 dead in a bombing. In fact, people assuming that he was arrested JUST BECAUSE HE'S A MUSLIM are being ignorant racists themselves.

I'm not saying the police handled the situation correctly all the way through but I am saying that I don't think all the blame should be placed on them, and that the school did handle the situation correctly.

No mate, muslims are a religion (or whatever the plural is or whatever - fuck grammar.)

I think people should learn electronic.

EDIT : This is an actual electronic clock. If you do not trust me, buy Arduino, and do your own tools. you'll see that some objects are REALLY more complicated inside.

Because confusing a clock and a bomb..lmao

Kid is genius btw, I couldn't even do proper coding at 14 :D

Sort of crazy to me. I've been to the school this happened at before and I live not too far away. I don't understand why he is getting so much attention for it.

Yeah you're right, I'm trying to intertwine two thoughts together at once too fast. I actually had the same conversation last night and told my friend that Muslim is a religion, lol.

Yes, I know it's a clock. It doesn't even have any explosives attached to it.
But you can't tell me it doesn't look suspicious after a quick inspection.
And you can't tell me that everyone should learn about electronics, because most people won't.

it's just Americans see any middle eastern brown person as a terrorist. since 9/11 we have been programmed to think that way. YouTube Collateral Murders. It's a wikileaks video showing just how blind we are with fear and how xenophobic we are while in that fear. This is just another case of stupid conservatives who drink the fox news kool-aid. #merica

That's dope as fuck, didn't even hear about it until now.

SysAdmin - September 17, 2015, 11:46 am

After a quick inspection it doesn't look suspicious at all, unless you have 5mg's of explosives in a wire that will make a small poof and make the school bully think he farted. I don't see any explosive material inside or around it.

Fine - September 17, 2015, 11:49 am

Well he got invited to White House so it's worth the arrest.
