Thread: Invalid image type in your signature image?

alnoise - September 19, 2015, 4:17 pm

I just got L33t and I am so excited about it. But when I try to put a gif in my signature it is saying that. Yes it does fit the size requirements. I uploaded the gif to imgur and put it in like you would any other image but when I save it it gives me this error message. Any help would be great, thanks!

Is the filesize too big? That might be the problem.

Do you have a screenshot of the error message?

Check the imgur url.

If it's as ".gifv" it's why it's invalid, remove the "v" out of it and you'll be fine.

The signature requirements are listed on the signature page in your usercp. Make sure the signature you're trying to use fits those criteria.

Make sure it's no bigger then 650x200 and 500k size.
