What would the header look like?The general "O" design and "Enigma" would be centered. Then a few of the "lines" would make for a symmetrical design. The delimiter would be same concept, but just one line, and then the ficon would be the "O" and possibly "Enigma."

Red doesn't look good, so I won't be posting it. I felt bad for not at least doing one of the requests, so I made it "less busy" and made "ENIGMA" easier to read.

Ginsum - September 28, 2015, 4:34 pm

Okay, I am laying this out flat.

These userbars look good but not worthy of being chosen as most of them are simply way too complex.

You don't have to add all these little things that will fill up the space. I see some that would like interesting if it seemed as if it was doing less things.

Liønheart - September 29, 2015, 1:46 am

I'm pretty sure I'm at the point in the contest where I'm just naturally supposed to quit trying.

LOL...

I made you a userbar in case you change your mind and want to rebrand along the lines of roadkill fetishes or Satan worshipping.

Don't worry. I'm going to bed now.

Superb stuff from you, nice work. These are not too complex; actually what you've done is pretty astonishing in that you've managed to combine an intricate UB with clean colours and a minimalist layout. Unless you get in touch with Works, Agi, or Cortz, nobody is going to do anything better.

Your banners look a bit meh, though. They appear rushed, and look like inflated versions of the UB. I'm not a fan of them; I'd start over with them by changing the dimensions to be thinner and longer, and having the banner use more horizontal screen space and less vertical space.

Just because it's about Computers doesn't mean you have to have little lines every where; There could be more object / designs that correlate to computers other than that.

Here's an idea if it's done properly it could work well.

Maybe design a badge that looks like a nice ram stick.

And maybe if you want to get crazy have it dissipate into 1s and 0s not saying the ones and zeros are out of the box but hey. Free idea why not attempt.

I'm not generic Riiiiight

^ Right

Also, so heated over 125, you should earn money shouldn't you?

Doesn't matter what I've made, I'm not claiming I'm any better or any worse.

I'm claiming it being generic, that logo I made wasn't entered for any money.

But what you're doing is being awarded to the winner.

Taking criticism from people who own groups is also a stupid way to go about things. All you have to do to own a group is to have money.

You're too arrogant, I would tell you to kill yourself but you're already doing that.

Btw,

Don't pump your self up too much.

"I'm a free lance designer"

You made a design flipped it and layer styled it.

Your ignorance astonishes me.

You should research how much photographers make before calling them out on money.

EDIT: The Legends userbar was all Raymond. Everyone knows that. I even stated in the submission that it is "a mess" and "lacks creativity." Continue attacking what I knowingly admit. It hurts.

" Please don't come at me saying I have a "bland style" "

You quoted bland style, assuming you didn't have a bland style.

"Research how much photographers make"

You should know yourself that there's a huge gap in how much they make.

Depending on if your published or what you're doing.

Just know you're still generic arguing isn't going to change that bb <3

"I'm pretty sure I'm at the point in the contest where I'm just naturally supposed to quit trying."

This should be the winner IMO..

Why? It's VERY unique. It is not one of those where they take a galaxy picture someone else made and throw a font on top of it..

It's bold and shows Engima very easily but still dark and detailed.
It also shows what Engimas about.

AND IT'S MADE FROM SCRATCH.
Not your typical galaxy with text.

Things being made from scratch should be a given. I wouldn't make it a distinct selling point.

Also when you say that about it, I sure hope I can assume those cogs aren't presets from somewhere as well as the dollar sign in the back.

I don't really get what's unique about it though. Looks cool, if I can look at it for longer than a few seconds because the rgb split effect makes it difficult to look at without hurting my eyes.
