I don't understand? If you are giving us the email lists to spam to then how are you paying for accounts? The amount of accounts we get would be dependant on the quality of email lists you are providing? Also you say you supply us with all we need to spam? Does this include SMTP's and custom mailer? if so what do you need us for? :D

DarkSec - September 25, 2015, 5:35 pm

I have a marketing platform worth $700 a month, want to buy the source? stole it a while ago

DuguWudi - September 25, 2015, 6:52 pm

OP, I dont quite understand, you supply the mail we need to email out or you supply the target email address we need email to them? It's kind of confusing.

How does one count an email is successfully sent to the recipient inbox and not spam box and whats the account stuff talking here?

Thank you.

So you supply the email list, that I'm going to mass email them correct?

What about my last question?

Regulus - September 27, 2015, 1:30 pm

Uhm. So let's say I use my Email address and spam 100 peoples and make sure they get it. Will you pay me? I don't know what you mean otherwise.

CyberStudio - September 27, 2015, 1:33 pm

Pretty sure the guy is saying if you send 100 emails, but only 20 people create an account, then he will only pay you for the 20.

It's common sense.. lol

But I don't need to create new email accounts for every email I send right? So I can send 100 emails from my original Email account and if 20 creates an account on whatever sites he means I get paid for them?

Hmm, I'm down easily. I'm great at spamming lol.

You don't understand how spamming works bro. You can't just create an email account and send a mass email. You need clean supply of SMTP servers and custom mailers so you inbox. You can't spam from any preexisting email service. He won't even say what the letter is he is requesting to be sent so for all we know it could be bank phishing or something. If he is paying per account then it probably is something blackhat anyways.

TNF. - September 28, 2015, 3:15 pm

0x - September 28, 2015, 5:33 pm

This is interesting, send me a PM. I have my own templates and a bunch of fresh STMP mailers.
