Don't switch to android. Apple is the way to go <3. You could've got a similiar issue with android.

EDIT: I actually had an android for a month or so because my iPhone broke. And guess what! The android can't even handle being in my freaking pocket! It destroyed it's own screen. So While having the screen broken there goes a week, someone calls me I answer it.

I put the android back into my pocket, 5 minutes after I pick it up again to check the o'clock, and the freaking screen is pushed in somehow.. Making the screen unable to use at all.

Could this be because I wear tight jeans/pants? I don't really think so but I like iPhone's so much better...
