Hinch - September 26, 2015, 4:51 am

Insight Recruitment Thread

What makes us different from other groups?

We are a very well organised group. We intend to import a system to make sure all our members will be active. We also intend to do a sort of "Mentoring" if you wish to call it. Every member recruited will have to teach at least 1 thing to all the other members in one session together, call it like school if you wish. You may think why are we doing this, well we are doing this so that all our members benefit from each other and you put in work to receive information, rather than being spoon-fed.

Really nice group to be in.
Take your chance and apply.

Grievous????? - September 26, 2015, 5:17 am

Use to be in this group.
Hinch is a really nice guy and a good leader.

You have to have some time on your hands to complete your tasks.

Aur3xis - September 26, 2015, 5:17 am

Apart of this group and I'm proud of it.
Really nice group!

Good luck applying guys!

What are your skills?: Networking, Webdesign, Ratting, Virus/malware removal.

What are you interested in learning about?: Improving my Webdesign and Networking skills, would like to dip into security after a bit.

Will you represent us in an HQ fashion?: Yes I will.

Do you use Skype and/or TeamSpeak?: I use my Mumble server on my Ubuntu home server. I can grab Teamspeak, not a huge fan of Skype honestly, but if required I will use it.

Are you willing to do a fair amount of Hw? Yes, I am a college student so Homework is a daily thing for me.

Do you have a mic? Yes, Blue Yeti.

List some notable threads? I have to yet to create a good tutorial thread, I have made various sales threads on other forums.

How can you benefit the group? I can help by bringing in products for sale, and teaching others various skills.

Are you willing to help out with group projects? Yes I am.

Why should you take one of the last few slots? I feel as if it would be a great opportunity to get into a group that is established and has actual ambition.

Cheeb - September 26, 2015, 8:24 pm

I would apply, especially since I'm so big on science and education, but unfortunately I don't use skype or teamspeak which is probably an automatic non acceptance. Seems really interesting though, good luck with this!

Raymond Reddington - September 27, 2015, 4:17 am pm members we look forward to seeing more

rrdein - September 30, 2015, 10:27 pm

How old are you?:

30s

What timezone are you in?:

Pacific GMT -7:00

What are your skills?:

-Ruby (Moderate)

-JS (Light)

-PHP (Light)

-SQL (Light)

I have some experience in web automation with Mechanize and Selenium-Webdriver (ruby), as well as Imacros (hate to admit it but sometimes it's easiest). I have some experience with PHP e-Commerce platforms as well (at the user/admin level, no programmatic experience). I am a good and helpful person and I am also extremely literate with elite skills in both persuasive and technical writing. I am also a fantastic and patient teacher (depending on time constraints).

What are you interested in learning about?:

High-Level web automation, with emphasis on finding programmatic approaches to common web automation obstacles, such as the new Recaptcha checkbox. My end goal for my programming study is to someday develop a media manipulation engine, for "learning" purposes. :P

Will you represent us in an HQ fashion?:

Though I am not exactly a "hacker" in the way that many are here, I have found that people here usually consider me to be helpful and HQ, due to a clear, informative, and persuasive writing style, and a positive attitude. To me the term HQ is equated with maturity, patience, and helpfulness. I might meet the greatest hacker in the world, not like his attitude, and feel he is LQ.

Do you use Skype and/or TeamSpeak?:

Honestly, I do not. I am wary of any collaboration methods that require installation of "closed"-source software, in these days of corporate and government spying. I remember in the past I have become aware that some of these programs represent incredible security risks. I do use PGP. I find that people often spill their guts to me in a chat session, and tell me all kinds of stupid illegal crap they have done. I believe in trying to find smart ways of communicating that do not put anyone at risk if they accidentally say the wrong thing, especially if it pertains to a project that is best kept secret. This can be discussed and I may be willing to be convinced.

Are you willing to do a fair amount of Hw?

I'm willing to do my best with a very busy schedule. I am a very hard worker but my plate is very full. You say it is for learning, and if I feel it will move me even remotely in a direction that is relevant to my goals, then I would be interested. However, I work full time, school full time, study on the side with much of my free time.

Do you have a mic?

I don't use one but I am sure I can scrounge one up for the task. I have a tablet for conference calls and things like that. Definitely workable for me.

List some notable threads?

As you can see I have a low post count. I can't say any of my threads are particularly notable. Mostly I have participated in the marketplace, or asked some questions about programming. Most of my activities here thus far have been in support of my own business activities.

How can you benefit the group?

I have moderate experience with Ruby and web automation, and have the ability to write scripts for whatever, provided I have the time and sufficiently-accurate directions on what is required. I also have basic knowledge of JS (no AJAX, yet), PHP, and SQL. I have experience with some PHP-based web platforms, including some e-commerce solutions. I can set up and configure various types of websites from open source platforms, though I'm weak on the graphics and visual design aspects. I have experience with Windows and MS servers at the admin level. Mild knowledge of Linux and Bash scripts. I have a lot of IT experience and in the (distant) past I have held certifications from Cisco and Microsoft. I am very resourceful and good at finding a solution to do the job.

Are you willing to help out with group projects?

This really depends on the projects. I'm not looking to have the FBI show up at my house or anything, and if the choice fell between working on an almost-due school project, and working on a group project, the group project would have to take a back seat. I am in my 30s and it is important for me to finish school while I can. I also work and have my own projects I work on. So, the answer is a definite maybe.

Why should you take one of the last few slots?

I cannot pretend that I am the most experienced user on here, or anything like that. However, I have a strong sense of community and I am seeking a mature group that reinforces that. I am extremely resourceful and have a very broad skill set, with some areas of knowledge that are less in demand around here, but which still become relevant at time. I am a natural teacher with a gift for all forms of writing, including persuasive and technical writing, and of course I am happy to write some tutorials if I can find something to teach. I am also naturally helpful. I cannot say for certain whether your group is a fit for me, or if I am a fit for your group, but I am also not the type to pump myself up or deceive anyone about my skills, so I am hoping you can review my information and decide if I am worth a shot. I am hoping that, if you are interested in me as a potential member, we can have a more direct chat to feel each other out. I am not looking to steal a spot from an applicant who is either more deserving or more useful to the group.

What are your skills?:

Programming/Scripting languages:

Python (beginner)

Java (beginner)

Knowledge working with Linux

I am a motivated person who does not lose interest quickly when problems arise or troubleshooting is needed

Fast learner

good communication skills

What are you interested in learning about?:

I am interested in learning how write my own offensive security tools and how to find vulnerabilities and then exploit those vulnerabilities. Learning about how malware is designed is very interesting to me too as well as steganography. Something I want to work on as I learn more about circuits in class is making a RFID reader/scanner similar to the proxmark3 but better range.

Will you represent us in an HQ fashion?:

Of course

Do you use Skype and/or TeamSpeak?:

Yes

Are you willing to do a fair amount of Hw?

Yes, I am willing to put in the time that is needed. I am currently in an advanced compsci degree program where I get a degree in two years so the pace is pretty fast and there is a lot to do with school. However, I can always allocate time away from other areas to make sure that I am meeting deadlines and contributing as I should be.

Do you have a mic?

Yes

List some notable threads?

Th3PonyWizard wrote some amazing threads and offered a great service for a long time, I respect the way that he chose to help the community

How can you benefit the group?

As I continue to learn about the fundamentals and theory behind computing, circuits and programming, I could help teach those fundamentals so that people understand what they are doing instead of just knowing what they are suppose to do. This will help people progress their skill to be able to think about problems or issues difference because of a better understanding of what is going on.

I am older compared to a lot of people on HF but I see that as a benefit, I know what I want to do with my life and am a reliable and consistent person who likes to be active and am looking to join a group to keep me active and so that I help keep others active. I see this similar to a competitive sport, when you have people to compare yourself to you as a person set a higher standard for yourself, and so everyone is trying to keep up with everyone and feeding off of each other's knowledge and motivation. I know that I can add to this.

Are you willing to help out with group projects?

Yes I am willing to help with group projects. I am in school to get into a career as a penetration tester so I do need to be careful regarding the projects I get into but , as stated above, so long as the project does not involve the feds knocking I will be there for every step.

Why should you take one of the last few slots?

I can be a potential long-term member who is only going to continue learning as the months pass. I know what I want to do with my career and hacking will be a large part of it, this is not a flavour of the month(s) interest. As such my contributions to the group will only continue to grow. I guess that is the main reason, I am very much dedicated to this field. I am also an outgoing person who enjoys being a part of active groups who contribute to building up their community.

How old are you:15

What time zone are you in: I am currently in UTC.

What are my skills: My skills include HTML, CSS, other random bits of languages and such, other boring stuff but I can solve a rubiks cube in under 40 seconds! No jokes it's pretty fun, I have a general interest in computers and security in general and I am hoping to pursue that. The 2 things I am hoping for out of a group are 1stly somewhere to learn and get better at things and 2ndly a rival to challenge me and get me to reach higher places.

Will you represent us in a HQ fashion?: Of course I will wherever I go.

Skype/TS?:I use both, my skype will be shaw511.hf and I will be able to go on teamspeak anytime.

Are you willing to do a fair amount of Hw?: As long as it doesn't get in the way of my actual homework :p but if its homework that I enjoy then I can't really class it as homework anyway.

Do you have a mic?: I indeed do have a Microsoft-livechat LX-3000.

List of some noteable threads?: I had an old account on here but I haven't visited in about a year so I forgot everything about it, and so this account was only created recently.

How will i benefit the group?: At the moment I will not be of much benefit to the group on a whole but in the future I will be more than happy to return any knowledge I possess.

Are you Willing to help the group out with projects?: Well if it is in my field of work then I will always be happy to contribute, and if not, then I will learn that different field and contribute anyway :D.

Why should you take one of the remaining slots available?: I think that I should be accepted into your group because I do want these things, and it is not a lie. I want to be there and do extraordinary things and work together on certain things, instead of stubbornly trying to do it all myself.
