He left to go pursue other opportunities in life and felt like he was wasting his time on this forum. I would have to agree with him. He was a gifted programmer and a talented kid for his age. A bit of a hard ass at times, but I think that's why we all liked him. He told the hard truths.

In any case, he isn't planning on coming back. His published work is still here in the forums though.

P.S. he asked for the admin's to close his account. The rep fuck was requested, this time.

The rep fuck was not requested, he did request his account to be closed.

For the rest, yeah. He felt like he was wasting his time on this forums.

I'm just here for the same reason True Demon and most other knowledgable ones are staying around.
