Thread: Do Any of You Go to School Online \(High School\)

Black Disciples - September 28, 2015, 4:01 pm

Hey guys I was wondering if you or anyone you know go to high school online? I am interested in taking that this year as I have dropped out of my old school. My plan is basically to take online school for a year then continue to a local high school next year.

I am looking for something accredited.

I ONLY need to take 1 year online, I'm NOT looking for some 4 year package deal.

I need something with foreign languages (preferably Portuguese, if not, that's fine).

I NEED to take these courses:

Geometry

World History/Civilization

Chemistry

American Literature

All at 10th grade level. Thanks.

If you know of any online high school that is good and easy to understand, please link me below and explain a bit about it if you can to me.

I don't know about online schooling. But I dropped 3 GCSE's this year from school because it was stressing me out too much. It turns out I don't even need that many GCSE's to take my courses on web development and software development.

GCSE's that are needed are English and ICT.

Just look at the schools website there should be prices there

Edit: <http://sevenstar.org/academy/> may or may not be right website ?

Stanford uni does online for hs students. A friend of mine did that as well as activity's on their campus and know she attends Stanford uni.

If you know ur plans for after hs check colleges that interest you and see if any colleges sponsor online hs's.

I believe it's about $700 per course, maybe less like $400.

Literally so many different courses you can take as well.

K12 , it's a free online public school. Everythings credited and it's super easy..

Also you can take AP, foreign languages etc.

I did during my Freshman year of High School and it was the biggest waste of time ever. The company had overloaded me with work, so I said fuck it and went back to public school.
