Thread: UPDATED DAILY!! Skype impostor list

Balding - September 29, 2015, 10:53 am

This thread was started as a community alert but it has now turned into a list of confirmed scammers. The skypes listed below are confirmed scammers and if they contact you, you should block them immediately. If you know of any scammers pm me the skype usernames with proof and they will be added to the list. I will keep this list going to prevent scammers from ruining HF and it's marketplace. Please keep this thread alive in order to protect the buyers and sellers of the marketplace.

Support the thread by adding it to your signature!!

skype: "boomrpd"

Very active impersonator, and adds pretty much everyone who posts into boomrpd's thread. The guy is really convincing and respectful/customer friendly during conversations so this is kinda fucked up lol.

Bailed out and blocked me as soon as I tried to get him message me onsite. Luckily I contacted the real guy before trading.

Even if no one thinks that he is active on that certain account it's not safe to deal with that account, you know what I mean?

Nice link to the scam report on me, yet there's no proof that the account does belong to me...So if I make a deal dispute saying that you made a post saying to add an acc, then say you deleted it, can you add it to this thread to? That's basically what you did to me. Guess you aren't as HQ as I expected you to be mr mini mod.

You literally could have told me that it wasn't you and I would've removed it, which I'll do right now.

Because there's no point in doing that. People could just search their UID before dealing with someone unless you're doing all this for attention.

I'm not doing it for attention at all. I'm just trying to let people know. I guess removing it would be a good idea then.

Thank you, please read disputes fully before posting it in this thread next time. It pisses me off when people just see a deal dispute and go ahead and post "legit report sorry u got scammed op" yet they don't even read it.
