Thread: The Brotherhood \ Recruitment

Roger Waters - September 29, 2015, 8:24 pm

Cryptic™

Roger Waters The Brotherhood described as an organization of individuals who are bound by loyalty to exercise their skills, knowledge, and time, which will encourage the acts of assisting oneself and others. We do not have one main purpose, skill, or idea. Over the past few months, we've taken a step back to let other groups show their worth to the site and to take a break for a while. We are opening our doors to new applicants who have expressed interest in joining for some time and are looking forward to adding new members to our family.

RequirementsFor this recruitment, we are looking for members that meet the following criteria:
Applicants must have been a member for over 6 months.

- No more than 20% Warning Level.

- Made contributions that have benefited the site.

- No Deal Disputes, though each one will be investigated accordingly.

- An overall positive reputation in the Hack Forums community, having a certain amount of positive reputation does not apply to this.

- Are in no more than three user-owned groups. Groups such as Writers, Mentors, Staff, etc do not count towards this.

ApplicationBe very detailed and make your application stand out as we will be taking in no more than 10 members. There are no limits to what you can or cannot include in your application, if you think something will make you stand out, feel free to add it.

Use this form to apply:

[b]Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:[/b]

[b]How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:[/b]

[b]Why should we pick you?:[/b]

Frequently Asked QuestionsQ: I was a member of this group in the past, can I get an invite?

A: No, you will have to apply like everyone else. If you were removed for inactivity that's a key point on whether or not you will be accepted again.

Q: Do you accept buy-ins?

A: The Brotherhood has never accepted buy-ins, and never will. If you're looking to buy into a group we suggest you look elsewhere.

Q: In the past you've had recruitment for a White Hat Helper program, a Gaming Sector, and a Business sector. Will these be returning anytime soon?

A: We are undecided on whether or not these will return, these are things we would like to bring back, but this decision would rely on the group's status later this year.

Tell us about yourself: Well I'm Intelligent Sin and I've been a Hackforums member since 2011. I came to this forum originally for the Minecraft and griefing section. I used it just to download clients and talk about the game in general. However, I quickly became bored with that and started branching out and helping people in the regular Minecraft section while at the same time staying away from the griefing section as it's full of bottom feeders. I then started to extend even further out into other gaming sections and lost interest rather quickly as I preferred Minecraft at the time (and still kind of do). I've rather recently discovered and shifted most of my posts in the "SRPP" section and feel quite at home. I'm an Atheist and tend to sway towards logic and reasoning as opposed to emotion. So being there for the little time I have has really opened my eyes as to how many ignorant/intelligent people fill this forum. It's also let me quite a few new faces. Anyway back to the SRPP section. I've used it for close to a few months now and enjoy it, however, it's not very active or at least not as active as I'd like it to be. So I'm applying per say to join this group to continue my branching out in the Hackforums community.

[Half price RedBox movies \[Three winners!\]](#)

(I've recently moved into a new apartment, started university, and gathered new equipment! so I haven't had time to make giveaways that I would consider noteworthy. Although I do plan to contribute more in the near future!) ?

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?: I see myself still actively contributing to the SRPP section, posting in various sub-forums I'm enlisted in currently, and branching out to unexplored parts of the community to hopefully better myself and my peers in some way, shape, or form. I also plan on doing a few more small giveaways (money is tight with this college lifestyle). So, although they may be spread apart or lackluster I'll make my best attempt at some form of giving back as I've also stated above.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: Like I've stated above repeatedly I'd really like to branch out and this would be part of my process in doing so. Yes, I do like a good argument or discussion but I also like and am interested in graphic design, web development, gaming, network security, and things of that nature. So, in short I hope to be able to learn a thing or two about a thing or two while maybe teaching others a few things! ?

Why should we pick you?: I'm not going to sit here and pretend I'm special in any sort. If I had a reason for picking me, I would say it's my activity. I'm constantly active every day of the week in various parts of the forum. Other than that I'm pretty easy to get along with (assuming we're not debating something on opposing sides. ?).

Thanks for taking your time to read my application! ?

PS: Trump 2016! Kissing Rogers ass is gross and I don't recommend it to anyone.

I am an 18 year old male living in Queensland Australia. I am currently studying a diploma in IT and I work in a retail store. I also run my own company on top of all of that. I spend more time then I should on HF and I have met quite a few amazing people during my time here. I have a strange personality, I live with major depression and am always stressed but you will rarely see me with a straight face, as I know how it feels to feel upset and I strive to make others laugh and happy with my lounge trolling and stories, I also have a professional side here on HF and real life with dealing in the SST and hosting services section. I am probably one of the most generous people that you will ever meet, I don't have much to give but I try to help out with what I do have.

If you want to know more about me I have a thread in the lounge which contains my early years of life and most of my childhood the link is here: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4982200>. If you want to know more about me feel free to ask as I am an open book.

Being in Brotherhood will allow me to gain knowledge from your other members and hopefully I will be able to join group projects and what not.

30s, M, low-level tournament Chess player, video game dealer. Going back to school soon after many years of health problems to complete a programming degree. Spend much of spare time learning programming, with particular emphasis on web automation. Most other knowledge has been learned with a view toward (someday) being knowledgeable enough to create a media manipulation engine, for the purpose of controlling public opinion (for good, not evil). My goals here are to learn, and I am always happy to work a bit or provide information where it is needed, within the bounds of my limited (but growing) skill set. I have a strong sense of justice and right/wrong, and I believe in personal freedoms and working toward a greater good. However, I also believe there is a battle going on for people's minds, and I wish to play a part in minimizing the damage (take that for what you will). I am looking for a group of programmers who are interested in helping each other to achieve their goals, whether they have those goals in common or not.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:

The closest thing I have made to contribution is paying for my Uber and Omni rank.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

I have no aspiration of becoming the biggest or most respected user on HF. I take care of my rep but won't fish for it, and badges mean nothing to me beyond garnering trust in marketplace deals. I am here because my legitimate business activities are starting to require a more focused understanding of Internet technologies and website security, and to that end I am trying to commune with some professional greyhats who are already familiar with the kinds of techniques I need to learn. I am FAR less interested in "getting somewhere" on Hackforums than I am in connecting with other groups of programmers, working in some of the same areas I am working in.

I originally came here for the Marketplace forums, but I am finding that some things are just much easier with a cooperative team that tries to help each other, than going it solo. I need people who can support me and motivate me to learn. In return I will offer what limited skills I have, and the ability to occasionally whip up small Ruby scripts to help out. As I learn more (and I am always learning), I will of course be eager to contribute those skills as well. I am generally humble and I try to keep a positive attitude, but I have a strong distaste for overeager trolls, and those who spread false or misleading information publicly so that they may gain. I should mention that I am not interested in working to take down <insert corporation here> or anything like that. I just want to learn and contribute my own knowledge.

Why should we pick you?:

-Ruby (Moderate)

-JS (Light)

-PHP (Light)

-SQL (Light)

I have some experience in web automation with Mechanize and Selenium-Webdriver (ruby), as well as Imacros (hate to admit it but sometimes it's easiest). I have some experience with PHP e-Commerce platforms as well (at the user/admin level, no programmatic experience). I am a good and helpful person and I am also extremely literate with elite skills in both persuasive and technical writing

I am 26 years old. Married, and a father of 3. I am an ex-government man, and have spent a significant amount of my life involved in the hacker sub-culture. I discovered Hack Forums in particular, back in 2009, and spent a few years casually lurking from time to time, getting more and more interested, but pursuing those interests mostly on my own. That strategy both built my confidence... and taught me how to fuck things up a bit ?.

In 2012, I returned to HackForums and decided to jump in, coming on the wave of massive interest in Minecraft, and Minecraft griefing like many others. I continued to lurk mostly, for quite some time. Recently I have become significantly more active on the forum, and I'm still looking eagerly for a place to "fit in" with users who share my passion for community involvement.

Computers and security are some of my biggest passions, and easily my most dominating hobby.
My current job isn't one in that field, though I've held others that were.

While I've posted infrequently there, I spend an unhealthy amount of time in the SRPP section. As a raised Christian turned Agnostic, I find many interesting discussions there. I find a lot of junk there as well, but sorting through that is pretty much the job you sign up for when you submit to the will of the mighty internet.

I have never, and will never, consider myself a "pro" hacker. What I am, is someone who loves technology, in all its forms. I am an avid gamer, and have been since I was a kid. I love utilizing the VERY limited skills I have in GFX, and my much more substantial skills in video editing/production.

Above all else, I am a learner. I have spent my entire life thus far soaking up as much knowledge as I can from those around me. I will never stop. ? You can't stop us all. After all, we're all alike.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:
I'll be the first to admit that my contributions (in forms OTHER than discussion and posting help) have been less than impressive at this point. Those around me can attest to the fact that I am incredibly determined to get more involved, and have been drastically ramping up my activity on HackForums and have shown a desire to contribute in any way that I can. I'm constantly thinking of new ideas to bring to the community, and assessing my own skills to see how they can benefit the forum.

Much of my recent activity, since becoming more active on HF, has been in the E-Whore section. Rest assured that my interests and skills spread far beyond just that, and what you can expect to see from me in the future is a much broader involvement in events.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:
As stated previously, I am daily becoming more active, and searching for more ways to get involved and "give back".

Contest will be a regular event from me. Not just "give-away" contests like the one I hosted (linked above) but real honest and competitive contests, involving some kind of skill, allowing users to truly compete and get engaged.

Guides and tutorials will be more regular, however I am not one to spit out a two paragraph tutorial on a subject that has already been beaten to death, which is why you likely won't see a ton of them, unless I have a unique take on the subject.

You can expect to see me becoming more and more active in the SRPP section, the various Hacking sections, nearly all of the gaming sub-forums, and more of the "money" section as I develop and learn more ways to build my Phreaky empire. ?

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:
I remember Brotherhood from "way back", and have always respected your group as some of the most professional members on HF.
That level of professionalism, effort, and (shoot me now) brotherhood, is something I've aspired to, and everything I want in a group.

I have full confidence that being a part of Brotherhood, would afford me the opportunity to network with like-minded users, learn new skills, hone my current skills, and work together to bring "more" to the HackForums community.

These are things I plan to do any-ways. What I would love, is to have the support and community of this group to better facilitate that.

Why should we pick you?:
Maturity, professionalism, activity... Should I be invited, I am confident that you would not be disappointed with how I represented your group.

Thank you for considering my application.

I hope to get more involved in the marketplace as I'm developing a method that looks promising right now. I'm also interested in the Coding, graphics, and web development areas and will probably be posting a lot more in those.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: I love learning and sharing my knowledge with others. In a group such as this I feel I'd be able to learn a lot about the things that interest me. By communicating with like-minded users, I believe I'll be better suited to help out other people around the community.

Why should we pick you?: I'm very friendly and easy to get along with. I'm not the most qualified member in any field, but I'm interested in just about every thing that this community has to offer. Since I've come back to Hackforums I've been online nearly all day, everyday. (In short spurts...I'm not some guy doing nothing at his computer all day...). You guys can check out my profile and decide whether you like me or not since my heartwarming personality and hot signature are all I really have to offer right now.

Thanks for reading. :)

Tell us about yourself:

To start off, I'm interested in programming and InfoSec fields. I got into computers a while back and it just clicked with me. I've always had a drive to learn more, and there seems to be an endless amount of criteria to find about computers, specifically security. It's always been an interest of mine.

Currently, I'm learning Visual Basic and Python. After these entry level languages, I plan on finishing up HTML/CSS and proceeding into PHP and MySQL.

I am also very much intrigued by philosophy and simply playing devils advocate in any arguments. There's two sides to everything, and I want to learn them both. I have recently taken on some Christopher Hitchens' books such as "God is Not Great," then I will be reading, "Rights of a Man" and some of his other books.

On HF, I'm always in the SRPP section and various sections that I can contribute to.

As a person, I am trustworthy, respectful, witty, and humorous. I'm always up for a chat and I can take a joke and dish some out as well.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4999385> I'll do little things like this just as freebies that members seem to enjoy.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4986432> This is my newest DoXing service which I haven't done much with, as school is very time consuming.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4966931> I'll randomly just take a day and do anybody favors that are within reason.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4912479> This was my old and most successful HF business. Made bank off of it, and was able to give someone the comfort of finding out more about their mother who passed away when he was a child.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4932957> A bit outdated, but I would update this thread and give people CS:GO items for a steal.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4886335> I do various useful script giveaway that are NOT leaked from any HF members.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4911825> More of a gag/joke service, I ran a pedobombing shop. This was not the addmecontacts method! I had my private and "unorthodox" ways of getting these sick-minded people to persistently bug someone on Skype. This was more of a friendly prank.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

In six months, I see myself as a much more educated member as I currently am. I plan on advancing in coding and becoming more well-rounded in various SRPP topics and current events of the time. I am hoping that I will be a more trusted member and by then, I will be able to be a greater service to HF than I currently am. Something I'm working on now, is helping out the newer members, and I would like to continue doing that over the next 6 months.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

I believe that being around a group of intelligent individuals can certainly influence the way someone acts, and how they learn. Being in a well respected group like Brotherhood, would be able to do that for me. I feel that being in a well-educated environment would make it easier to find the help that I need, and help others that I am able to assist.

Why should we pick you?:

The main reason that I should be picked is because I dedicate myself and my time where it's needed. I don't plan on going anywhere anytime soon away from HF or the community, so I would be a long term member with high hopes and a desire to learn more about various topics and subjects. I can provide numerous services to the members that need it, and I'm an amusing person to be around in general. I'm mainly an extrovert, so I'm very outgoing and never shy away from a chat or another member.

Tell us about yourself:

I'm 20 years of age. I live in New Zealand and I am also a proud supporter of the All Blacks.

To start this off, my knowledge is quite diverse ranging from Computers to Cars so I shall do my best to tell what knowledge I posses.

I'm a self taught web designer taking on HTML and CSS I have 1 published website to show my efforts.

The Girlfriend Translator: <http://www.thegirlfriendtranslator.net/>

I'm a self taught coder. Self taught JavaScript and Python. I am yet to find a use for Python but I did use JavaScript in conjunction with my website above to handle translations and events. I have taken a break from coding as I have been focusing a little more on building computers and exploring different things such as game and app development but I shall detail those in another paragraph. For now I shall stick to coding.

Like I said I have self taught JavaScript and Python knowledge which I will be refreshing again sometime soon. But in between then and now I do plan on starting my journey into PHP for web security. I had studied small portions of PHP to secure my website which sadly what I had learned has now diminished.

I am also an aspiring indie game developer, nothing to show for my efforts in this part yet, I have been working on the basics of game development using the new Unity Engine. I have busted out a few playable levels but nothing I am willing to show just yet. For games I like to tackle more sinister or ominous looking games. The 2D Platformer I am working on is intended to give an eerie feeling during gameplay, music wise and graphic wise. It is hard for me to put what I am making into words as it is quite an intricate and different project.

For a 3D game I am taking more of a post-apocalyptic stance with free roam exploration where a player has a multitude of exploration options. A player could find themselves in a city where every building is searchable and back alley customizable to an extent where it can be fortified or a lavish forest area with the dangers of wilderness and the need for survival.

Right now I am currently building my first PC which I intend to use for a multitude of tasks such as app, game developments, music producing/recording, coding, gaming, streaming as well as many other things.

On the music side I won't say I'm a musician but I won't lie musically I am some what talented to an extent. Having taught myself Piano, Drums, Bass/Guitar It has fueled a passion for music within me which I am grateful for. I don't listen to music, I appreciate music no matter the genre. Music to me is a persons way of expressing how they feel and when I listen to music people like I learn a lot about them. Whether it be their views on life, themselves or simply what is on their mind at the time.

I have recorded a few songs with my guitar and made a few songs on FL Studio but I like instruments more. It feels better, right as opposed to making music on a computer which I have nothing against, but with a hand held instrument there is depth in your compositions. Meaning, feeling, life. I like music.

I like Psychology and Sociology, I like the concept of understanding people's minds and the formation of the masses and they can be used for a good cause. Just something I thought I would throw in there.

This is me, I feel like I have missed some things and when I remember them I will add them.

4. <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4385360>

Most contributions I make are when I roam different sections on the forum such as the Hacking, Private Investigation, Coding, VPN, Proxies, and Socks and E-Whore sections. I like to go through a few pages and help people out with what it is they are having trouble with.

I did at one point become quite active in the E-Whoring section where I would help people make/set up methods that suit them free of charge. I would typically go on Skype, chat with them, show them how to make some earnings at certain way via screen share and then walk them through it as I do it and as I watch them copy what I did.

I never liked having people pay for things I could learn for free, so I also everyone as best to my knowledge as I could to save them money.

I guess another thing I could note is I did have an active Skype group with many members of Hackforums which was very well kept. Helped members out whether it be general problems in life, online or feuds between other members/groups. I always made sure the group was safe, flame free and threat free.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?: I don't know where I see myself in 6 months in my life let alone Hackforums, but if I would to think of something, I'd say I'd see myself more as a daily contributor to the forum and it's users as opposed to the lurker I have become over the last few months.

I would like to see myself in a group of like minded individuals whom also have a want for new knowledge whether it be old or now. I have always found it hard to find people who are into the same things as me although Hackforums is a large place. The task does prove tedious. I think being a part of a group would certainly surrounded me in people I can get a long with and more.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: The fact I'm surrounded by easy going people with similar interests as me would give me an insane drive to improve my Hackforums presence, it might even make an impact in my every day life, knowing I have people to talk about things such as building computers, gaming, coding, etc would be a weight off of my back as opposed to suppressing my knowledge because not many people around me share my interests.

Why should we pick you?: Honestly, I really can't say. I may seem appealing to you I may not. There maybe someone more suitable than me and you pick them, if there is and I doubt there won't be then I still support that decision. A better question would be. Why do you want to pick me? Because I'm an out of the box thinker, I tinker with bits of information to learn new things. I'm a free thinker with an open mind ready to process anything coming my way. In my eyes there's nothing I can't do because I believe I can do it. I'm a helper, a pleaser in general a kind person.

Tell Us a Bit About Yourself: I live in the deadly country of Australia, where even the grass is out to kill ya. Ive had a constant passion for technology since i was a child. At the age of 6 i was de-assembling my mums work computer and constantly pissing her off, even though i only managed to break something a few times ? Since then i have been constantly exploring different faces of tech, and embedding myself into ones i find enjoyable. I am looking to get more into networking, cyber security and cyber forensics. I am currently thinking of doing a counter cyber-terrorism unit at university. Im keen to make new friends and learn new topics. I am currently looking to start learning programming and getting into marketing and product management.

Where Do You See Yourself In 6 Months: Hopefully, and this is only if the planets align, managing a successful product, or selling one for someone else. I would like to have a decent understanding of a programming language or two by that time, and possibly be writing my own software. I would also like to have released a large number or tutorial, guide and informative threads for the topics that i take interest in. I have already written a few and have heaps more to come. I would also like to be the first person (in the last few years) to get the RAT award without having to buy the 'Master Donator', hopefully that will happen in the near future :3. Oh and i would also like to be a part of a enjoyable and skillful group, be it official or unofficial. BH looks like the perfect group for this, hence me applying to it. I would also like to get into alot of White Hack Hacking, with a focus on forensics and virus removal.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: Interesting question this. The Brotherhood is filled with skillful people in almost all sectors of Hack Forums. I am sure that if i ran into any issues, had any questions or needed assistance with anything, the members of this group would be happy to help me. Hopefully i would be able to return this favor to others as well. The Brotherhood also has a VERY strong presence in the White Hat Help section. This section is something i have been very interested in joining, and being in this group would help that, without a doubt.

Why should we pick you?: I am sure, without a doubt, that there are people applying to this group who are a lot more knowledgeable in their fields than I am. Saying that however, i have a very broad field of knowledge among several areas, and i am constantly looking to dive into other areas that are unknown to me. I am a generally nice person to be around, if i do say so myself. I respect everyone, and it is up to them if they loose my respect or not. Hopefully i would be able to help and assist people inside The Brotherhood, as well as many other people outside the group in the groups name.

Thank you for reading through my application. Hopefully, if accepted, i will be able to bring a strong presence of The Brotherhood into sub-forums where it is not seen, as well as strengthening its presence in other areas. The Brotherhood would be the perfect place for me to learn now stuff, as well as meet tons of new friends. If you have any more questions, please feel free to get in contact with me. I will happily answer all questions. ?

Sorry for the short(ish) and graphic-less application. I do not believe that cool pictures and dividers should determine a application to be good/bad. Its the content and the person that matters.

I think your groups HQ users its guidance, along with your great resources will affect my being on HF very positively.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

In 6 months I'll be the same person I am today, doing the exact same thing I'm doing right now. I'll be helping out in the Innuendo section and hopefully have 1000+ posts there 6 months from now on. I'll also aim to become a mentor by then.

Gaining new connections, reconnecting with members I already know. It'll all add up in the long run. I believe in learning something from everyone. I might be good with computing or innuendo, but someone else can teach me about soccer or coding. The more I know, the more of it I can apply to my online and offline life. Maybe I'll even find some new partners to help me out with my innuendo advice. They can teach me things and I'll teach them things, which will help me to become a mentor.

Why should we pick you?:

Because I'm myself. You won't find anyone that's close to being like me. I'm confident and sociable. Active and humble. You'll have a great time with me in the group and will learn a lot. Vice versa, I will have a great time and will learn a lot as well. It's a win-win situation. You'll help me to reach my goals, and I'll help you reach yours. I'm quite interested in what became of The Brotherhood since I left as well. I remember posting songs about Aura.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:
The Brotherhood is surely a resourceful group with a good work ethic. I think that joining The Brotherhood would be a way for me to get more educated, on the one hand, and more motivated, on the other hand. I notice that when you belong to an exceptional group like Brotherhood you feel a pressure to improve both your work ethics and your knowledge and I think that this is crucial to one's improvement.

Why should we pick you?:
You should pick the members that you feel that can represent The Brotherhood in the best way possible. The Brotherhood is one of the groups that provided the forums with high quality material. If you think that I can provide high quality material as well then allow me to join you. If not, a piece of advice on how to provide better material would be good too! Thank you!

I'm 17 years of age, and I live in New Zealand where technology hasn't really been popular due to the weather we get and the amount of sports that gets played, I moved here when i was three years old, and I was born in Wales. I've had a huge passion for computers ever since I've been 9 years old, i'd hear anything to do with them and i was instantly hooked. I play a lot of sports, and enjoy playing rugby, football, or basketball whenever i get the chance, I've had no computer for nine months, and I've been very active within that time frame, but haven't had the chance to open a recruitment thread for brotherhood as I've tried and it's next to impossible on my phone as it's terrible, but i expect to get a computer within the next 3-4 weeks hopefully with what I'm currently doing. I've come a long way since last year, and have expanded my knowledge within various topics on hf, such as Website and Forum hacking (Learnt a lot about SQLI how it works, and how to shell websites, deface them, etc), and "IRC Botnets" and have used my past knowledge in much more topics like "Vices" and "Innuendo". I love programming, I'm not to advanced but i have a good understanding in HTML, JavaScript, and Python. I've been growing an Instagram for a while now, and have started to look into CPA and all further aspects including PPI and PPD. I also love when I've helped members within there endeavors and they have become successful, it really makes me feel good knowing i have helped them to achieve there goal, and knowing that they are making money, or are being able to whatever they wanted to do.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

I see myself contributing in every way I possibly can, and becoming a lot more involved within the hack forums community, and I'll strive to help every member out I can on the forums whilst having fun and creating relationships with various other members. I'd like to see myself giving out free methods that I have used in order to obtain something or money. I'd also like to create various tutorials for members with the knowledge that I know in a topic. I see myself also contributing to every member in every way possible, whether it is helping out with scam reports, or helping out even more within the innuendo section. I'd like to expand my knowledge within all of the Tech Section, Java, and Cryptography, as those are all things that interest me and I can see myself getting into them, so I hope to pursue those topics.[/color]

It will help me create new relationships with members in the group. It'd also help me start projects with somebody I can trust (Which would be everyone in the group) and has the same knowledge as me whether it's a Help desk, or something like a tutorial. I'd like to think this group also has an active sub forum, where everyone get's along well, so that'd really be good for me and would help me get to where I want to be as an even more active member of the forums, this group could help a lot when i want to be more HQ within posts, hosting giveaways, and releasing methods (for free).

Why should we pick you?:

I believe you should pick me because I think I would fit right into your group, as I get along with almost everyone, and enjoy starting new relationships with members. I would really like to be chosen so then I can bring loads of HQ posts within the brotherhood sub-forum and in the general community, and I'd also be a very good asset to spreading the name of the brotherhood, and wouldn't make the brotherhood look bad as I'll only be posting HQ threads/comments, and being nice to every member that i manage to meet.

Tell us about yourself: I am a 17 year old guy from Scotland, I study Social Science at college. This includes History, Psychology, Sociology, A basic look into counselling and Criminology. I am a genuine nice guy that enjoys meeting new people and building relations. I know you probably don't want to hear this but I actually have legitimate experience with marketing (outside of HF) as I worked at a company doing sales.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months: I do not have a lot of contributions that I can exactly show you within the last 6 months. I use to do a lot of giveaways years ago but stopped as I don't really have much to give away to the forum in the form of freebies. However I contribute towards hackforums by making high quality and relative posts. I also upgraded to ub3r within the last 3-4 months.

I do have one recent giveaway:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5011861>

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?: In 6 months I see my self with more connections, experiences and a better rounded person. I like how everyone comes from a different aspect of life and you can actually gain a lot from just speaking with other members. I also strive to make money and I believe both of those are achievable goals. I also would like to make more contributions to the forum.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: I believe that by joining The Brotherhood it will help me reach my goals as I will get to speak to new people, exchange information, help each other out and gain a real sense of community with the group that I could actively engage in.

Why should we pick you?: You should pick me because I may not be very well known but everyone has to start somewhere. I think that by picking me you would be opening new opportunities for myself and possibly even the members of the group.

If you want to ask any questions feel free to give me a private message I would be more than happy to reply.

I'm working in real life and trying to make some extra online, I'm saving up to go travelling with a friend at the start of next year. Meanwhile, I'm taking lessons to get my drivers' licence. Next school year, I'll start studying Aerospace Engineering at the Delft University of Technology, really looking forward to that.

I'm an extrovert guy, I like music concerts and festivals a lot (the list is 64 concerts long and I've got 6 more coming up so far :D), I play soccer three times a week, have a passion for producing short films (among others, I made this.) and love a party every once in a while. I'm passionate about books, games, movies and TV series overall, as a compelling story can really grab me sometimes, no matter via which medium it is delivered. Furthermore, I like to read about space, physics, quantum stuff, all because it's so mindblowing all the time. I love that feeling.

Plus, a lot of single posts in the RANF and Marketplace Discussion section to help members with simple questions, there are too many to list.

Also, I'm a DJ for HF Live, which is re-launching in the very near future!

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

Basically, older and wiser. Everyone learns something new everyday, especially when meeting new people. Right now, I'm in kind of a gap: most people I used to get along with a lot on HF have taken some time off to focus on real life. I'm basically looking to make some new friends and I want them to be good ones.

I think the kind of people I'm looking for are in (or could be in) The Brotherhood. Due to your extremely high standards, you make sure that only very high quality members can join your group. And I think that is necessary. In L'appel (RIP), I met a lot of HQ guys too, and I liked it a lot. The strict recruitment policy was part of keeping that quality real. If I'm accepted, I know that I'm on a good path in being the member the forum (and group) needs me to be. If I'm not, I know I'll have to work even harder to become that.

Why should we pick you?:

I think I'd fit into this group perfectly. Like-minded individuals and all that jizz, right? Sorry, I thought I was applying for Echo for a sec.

On a serious note, I do think I'd fit into this group, but that's for you to decide. You've read my application, you should have an image of me right now (no, I don't have a neckbeard), and you know what the group is like. You have a feeling right now, and I'd say: always trust your gut; whatever it says. I'll just wait here and see.

Thanks for the time.

Well ive been on darkode for a long time and barely visited hackforums just to check out if there was a major update or something. So nothing special in here but I will definitely start working hard here to get a HQ user with the help of my brothers if I get accepted.

[Image: hTHq1vX.png]

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

In the next 6 months ill start developing some nice products, earn some money and also get known on here. I will also try to help as much as I can because being a nice guy gives me good karma. ?

[Image: hTHq1vX.png]

By joining this group ill get you guys around me helping me if I need help. Same for you. I am loyal. Blood in blood out

[Image: hTHq1vX.png]

Why should we pick you?:

Because being a member of brotherhood is the only thing I want to be on hackforums. I never applied to another group and I don't need to if I have you guys.

I always help other people on hackforums and have a lot time so I can be there for you guys if you ever need me. I am also old enough to make serious decisions and I am not acting like a child.

3 words in my mind about me:

funny, helpful, determined

3 words in my mind about brotherhood:

loyalty, teamwork, fun

[Image: hTHq1vX.png]

Thats it.

Nothing special but it is what it is an application.

best regards,

Kangal

I am 16, from Australia. I do lots of things in and around the internet both inside and out of HF. I sell assorted keys on sites like G2A and eBay, do graphics both in and outside of the forum; I am also starting to work for a professional design company in Melbourne, Australia. After my success I decided to release an eBook on how to make all this money and put it out on the market for cheap so people who didn't have a lot of money could make some. I am actively looking for new ways to be an entrepreneur on-line. I am sort of crazy once you get to know me and enthusiastic :)

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

I see myself hopefully in a group with a team to work with. A lot of increase in my graphics ability along with the release of version 10 of my eBook (by then), hopefully getting some tips and tricks from the members of the Brotherhood to help me. I hope to have a lot more posts and reputation and have a higher standing on the forums - with a lot more money.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

I hope to learn from the members of The Brotherhood, do some marketing, share some tricks of the trade along with entrepreneurial advice. I also wish to play some games with some of the members to get to know them a bit better so I can become more well known on the forums hopefully. The members of the brotherhood could help me and I could help them, maybe getting a few people into the gfx service and the like.

Why should we pick you?:

Because I could benefit from your group and I am sure members of your group could benefit from me in some way - if not just to have another friend :)

I would eventually like to pursue a career within music or something computer related. I finished high school a couple of years ago, but I have no idea what I want to do quite yet.

Even though I am relatively new here on HF, I am starting to figure out how things work around here. I have ended up become addicted to this place and the people here.

There is nothing I hate more then low quality posts with no intention other then to provoke, hurt someone or start a fight. So I make it my goal to always have constructive posts and threads.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

When it all comes down to it, I want to keep going down the same road as now.

I like helping people and providing free services, and I want to dedicate even more time to that. In the future

I will hopefully have some more projects up and running. I also aim to have established at least a few paid services. Learning programming is also something I am considering doing.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

This group has an excellent reputation here on HF, and I would be honored to join The Brotherhood. There is so much to learn on HF.

In my opinion, the best way to do this is by joining groups, where members can help each other. I have been here long enough to understand that joining a dedicated group would be my next step to move up in the HF world.

I have always thought that one of the best ways to learn something was to study what the experienced people are doing. Joining The Brotherhood will allow me to do this.

Why should we pick you?:

I honestly don't know what direction you plan on taking this group, but if you think I could be a good fit you should definitely pick me.

All I can do is promise my loyalty, dedication and respect. I would also like to add that I am a guy that is easy to get along with.

I came to Hackforums, because i wanted to learn how to hack Runescape accounts, which then lead me to start earning online, because i have heard that you could sell gold for IRL money. After my first month or two on hackforums i bought L33T. I kind of stopped using HF when i was in my last year of Highschool, because i was concentrating on school. Hack forums made quite an impact on my life, because this is the only forum where i am mostly active.

Tell us about yourself:I'm 19 years old and from Belgium. My main goal joining this group is to share some of my knowledge, as well as getting to know what The Brotherhood could possibly teach me. If I get accepted by you it will be my first group on hackforums after years of hackforums, so I'm planning to be a long term member rather as someone just being inactive, not contributing to anything.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:Some threads about monetizing were posted by me containing: free Udemy (warez disallowed) tutorials, free gadgets by referring people, PTC, etc. I also had a thread where I helped people out with my knowledge on SEO and was helping people out with domains and hosting a website. Besides hackforums I released some lists of cracked Netflix accounts and methods to get free Spotify Premium.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:With a lot more time now I'm getting a more active member for sure, I'm willing to get deeper into making websites and I'm considering to get into Swift to code something for the App Store. Meanwhile I will pick up some monetizing methods, I could use the earned money to startup one of my projects mentioned here.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:Again, this will be my first group ever on hackforums, so I really don't want to f*ck this up. I'm hoping a new world will open to me, where I can develop my variety of skills to the maximum. I'm one of these old school members who thinks hackforums still exists to help eachother out, not like some people(not specifying anyone) are just here to make some fast profit without giving back to the community.

Why should we pick you?:I think I'll be a good choice because I will be active and I will not hold back to share anything private with you. A group is supposed to be loyal and help eachother out, some tend to forget about that. If someone asks me a question I will straight up tell them what my opinion is, wether my opinion is either good or bad my goal will always be to give them a honest answer which will get them somewhere.

Tell us about yourself: I joined HF awhile ago while I was in high school and only really used it to buy cheap subscriptions and lurk on others' threads. I've decided that now I'm doing college I have a bit of extra downtime and would like to be a contributing member to a thriving community. I'm majoring in Chemical Engineering with a minor in Pre-Finance. I specialize in all things social media, and have made $15,000-20,000 through influences on various sites. I'm currently looking to get back to making an income through said ventures.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months: As I said before, I only recently decided I'd really like to be an active member of HF so my last 6 months is less than impressive. However, I aim to bring a lot of discussion to the Lounge, add material to the Market tab. I also game on the side so input would be there as well. I'm open to suggestion and am a quick learner.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?: I see myself (hopefully) being an active member of the Brotherhood. I've just applied for Ub3r, so I hope I can achieve that status as well. I would like to be a contributing and known member on Hack Forums.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?: I see being in this group as a high status. I see your members and as highly revered and respected. I think having something like this would greatly benefit how I'm regarded on the forum and therefore up the value of the material I put out.

Why should we pick you?: You won't meet a harder working, and better contributing member of the Brotherhood. I can bring whatever is needed of me and then some. I'd like a chance to prove myself in your group.

My profile is shy of impressive as it stands now, but believe me that is changing every day. I appreciate the opportunity to apply to such a well respected group, and I hope you will take my application into consideration.

Tell us about yourself:

I am a very kind person that has nothing against nobody. Unless the person in question is talking shit about my family. Then I have some big problems.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:

I have only been on Hackforums for about a month. So far I've released one eBook and my coding services.

I do not really have any links to show but I'm a developer in VB.NET and C#.

I'm also the coder of 143 VPN's client.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

I see myself as a important person in Hackforums marketplace. I see myself as a respectful business man and coder. And ofcourse - a trustable user.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

I think that it will help me a lot because I will have a lot easier to advertise my upcoming products.

Why should we pick you?:

Thats something that you have to figure out yourself.

I cant control your minds.

I'm just your average guy trying to learn as much as I can so in the future I can try and fathom making a difference.

List all contributions to the site have you made within the 6 months:

I've done my best to try and help with Doxing for other members, giving out some tips, and tried my best to partner with some HF members with selling some Methods and some just raw idea's for the sales people to expand upon.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

Lately I've been trying to contribute a little more, so I might see myself releasing some ebooks and making some more "learning" threads.

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

It'll make me some friends and that'll give me some opportunity's to expand my knowledge and give me a bit more time to contribute to the community.

Why should we pick you?:

Should? Shouldn't really do anything. I think I'm an OK individual and could try and help out some people. I'm not really entitled to anything, so it's really not my place to say what I deserve and what I don't.

Right, and that becomes a burden once large amounts of people apply to your group. If you're going to apply those two clicks shouldn't be a problem.

We have different opinions on that. I think that if you find someone that looks interesting enough to become a member in The Brotherhood, you should not have any problems performing 2 clicks.

If you are applying to a group you should put forth the littlest of efforts to provide a link like all the other information you already provide. I don't think you understand what an application is and why there's an outline.

1.) We want to see if you have any open scam reports open or any community alerts open on you which will tell us something you obviously wouldn't be bragging about in your application.

2.) It shows us you put in just enough effort to have us actually read your application. Rather than taking the time to read through an application where someone says "just click on my profile for this", we can eliminate you from possible members we want in our group.

3.) It's nothing different from what other groups ask for. Some groups ask for things that are complete nonsense in the application. I don't see you criticizing them for asking for a random picture to be posted or something stupid like that.

To get the information from a trust scan they have to click once too.

Do you understand what I'm saying?

The whole idea of having you put that in there is to help ease the process of doing that. The trust scan tells us a lot about a member.

Here's your trust scan:

From this, we can see you've scammed someone in the past and you threatened other members. We can put this information into consideration on whether or not we want to accept you.

You're putting some effort into the application which could help whether you get accepted or not. As I said in a similar post on here, groups ask some outrageous questions in their applications. People still follow through and provide the information the application asks for. You don't want to provide the information? We don't have to accept you, simple as that.

A community alert saying something about you will tell us that we need to do more research on you. We'll determine whether or not the alert is false and we'll go from there.

I understand how you are thinking.

But there are (as stated before) two ways to look at it.

- 1) The applying user should put some time into his application
- 2) The hires should put some time into the applications

No, we're not "both correct". Your logic makes the point of an application null and void.

Why should I make an application if the group owner has time to Google me? What's the point? Do you see how stupid that is?

That is a big difference. Clicking the link to a trust scan and finding someone's trust scan takes about the same time.

I mainly do giveaways/free services, looking to do tutorials soon!

Not to mention, a load of GFX and my free methods from PM's etc.

Where do you see yourself (on Hack Forums) in the next 6 months?:

I see myself running a few shops, have a lot more tutorials, and have people having a lot more respectable look at me. I might just see a few rewards on my account ;)

How will joining this group help you reach where you want to be in those 6 months?:

Oh man.. I don't just want to join this group to use you to "reach my way to the top".. I look at this group like a family/friends (If you're looking to friend zone me.. :?) if I joined.. Not just a userbar.. However, in a way.. There are a lot of high quality members that I look up to in this group and I would like to be able to come to them if I need help instead of making a thread etc..

Why should we pick you?:

Three major things.. I don't want to join just for a userbar.. I will have a LOT of time for this group and anything we do.. And because of how much I look up to this group..

I see a lot of people just wanting to join groups for that cool userbar so they can look HQ and never be active in the group.. That's not me, I would be very active! Play games whenever, help on making tutorials, threads, and all! Like I said, I am homeschooled and currently not in any sports. So most the time I have is free! This group is in my opinion, one of the or THE most HQ group. I never see anyone in this group being low quality, trolling, etc.. That gains a lot of respect in my eyes, I had one past experience in a group and it was very low quality and just a bunch of spammers/trolls.. I'm sure you can guess what group. So, I left. This group is exactly what I am looking for and I will be very dedicated.

Thank you, Chase.
