Thread: Axiom \ League of Legends Tournament \ Win Group Invite + \$\$ \ POSTPONED

Phreakdaine - October 6, 2015, 12:56 am

Tournament has been postponed indefinitely, due to lack of attendance. A good amount of players signed up, but unfortunately only a handful of them showed up on the day of the tournament. An enormous amount of effort has been put into this, and I appreciate everyone who helped out. I won't be continuing to try and make new dates for this, however I'll leave it somewhat open ended. If users gather of their own accord and wish to still have a tournament, I will gladly host it, and I know that most if not all of the prize backers will stand by their pledge, should this happen.

I'm excited about this. I just hope we get enough entries to have a really solid tournament. 8 teams of 5, that's 40 people. We can do it with less of course, but a full 8 team bracket would be epic. Everyone tell your friends lol.

Unfortunately for THIS tournament it is. We have no good way of combining the regions, so we have to hold separate tournaments EU competition will be not long after the NA one, provided things go well and there's enough interest.

Judging by the responses we've received, it's pretty safe to say that an EU tournament won't be long after this one. ??

I'll PM you both in case you don't see this... but we've decided we're ok with you bringing some non-members to the tournament. We would obviously prefer to have as many HF people as possible, but if you have a team you want to play with, bring them on over and we'll get you signed up.

Keep in mind that one of the main prizes for this tournament is Axiom membership, so they obviously would not be eligible for that, unless they chose to become an active member.

Anyone, off-site or on-site, is still eligible to win the $50 as team MVP though.

This is more about having a fun community event, the prizes are perks. Also who wouldn't want to win $50? And if you're on HF, group membership can be a big deal to some people. This is the first event like this ever hosted by our group, so it's starting off 100% on my back. If things go well here, we'll be doing more in the future, and I'm sure there will be much more involvement and support in the way of prizes. If you have people that are interested in playing I'd really encourage you to still come get involved.

Unfortunately this particular tournament is NA server, as we have no good solution for bringing together players from multiple regions. Provided this one goes well, there will be an EU tournament hosted by lcy coming in the near future.

There's 2 people without any info on the table, will teams be formed automatically or does there have to be contact between everyone to form a team ?

I'd like people to contact each other via forum to form teams, but anyone "left over" will be automatically teamed up to form the remaining teams.

Phreakdaline - October 16, 2015, 8:20 am

Last day to round up a couple more teams or we'll have to delay this indefinitely. I won't outright cancel it, as we could push it back a week+ to gather more teams, but if there seems to continue to be a lack of interest we'll have to call it off.

Alternatively, one option would be to make this a 3v3 tournament as opposed to the ideal 5v5. If you have signed up as a participant and have an opinion on this, let me know ASAP please either here or via PM.

zeroxi - October 16, 2015, 9:23 pm

Just make a 3v3 tournament since there's not enough beans that are applying smh

I'll send out PMs in a while to see if everyone would be down for that. We could at least do a 3v3 tournament with 4 teams if everyone that signed up shows up.

Zoo - October 16, 2015, 9:32 pm

I would 100% be down for this if you did it for EUW. I think even if this fails (not enough people join/turn-up), I think you should try hosting one for EUW, I'm sure we'd be down for it!

I hope this works out though, it's very nice to see a tournament on here.

Kenjataimu - October 17, 2015, 12:06 am

Is this being delayed? I will totally sign up for this.

I will be forming a team. Give me a couple days.

May I suggest putting a thread in the league of legends section?

I'm thinking that we'll try to delay this till next weekend, and maybe I'll get this stickied this in the League section.

We had that question a few times and we did decide that we're ok with that. We'd prefer as many people from HF as possible, especially considering many of the prizes are forum related, but we're ok with you having part of your team from off-site.

Everyone else, if you're seeing this for the first time, I've been trying to get this tournament together for a few weeks now, and we pushed the date back so we'd have a chance to bring some more people in. Check out the tournament website with the full list of players here

And post on the thread or contact me with your information to sign up! If you have a full team that's even better, and we DO accept teams that are partially made up off off-site members.

Is it still on for 5v5 on was it moved to a 3v3?
And what if members of the team aren't online?

You see the issue I'm having. ?

IF we get enough people online tomorrow, we'll stay 5v5. We need a minimum of 20 people for that though. So if less than that show up, we'll do 3v3. We need minimum 12 people to show up for a 3v3 tournament.

I'm about to put up a different TS3 server, and see who all joins. We'll get it running if/when we have enough people to start. It could very well be delayed a bit while we get people online and organized.

Second this. Anyone who wants to do this, hop in Teamspeak, let's gather everyone there.

We have a very solid number of people who have submitted information, if most of them show up we'll have a good tournament. ??

Tournament has been postponed indefinitely, due to lack of attendance. A good amount of players signed up, but unfortunately only a handful of them showed up on the day of the tournament. An enormous amount of effort has been put into this, and I appreciate everyone who helped out. I won't be continuing to try and make new dates for this, however I'll leave it somewhat open ended. If users gather of their own accord and wish to still have a tournament, I will gladly host it, and I know that most if not all of the prize backers will stand by their pledge, should this happen.
