

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Need Feedback | Street Photography

50mmLife - October 7, 2015, 4:02 pm

Hello Everyone,

This was one of my first work on Street photography. It depicted the busy streets of famous Chandni Chowk markets of New Delhi, India. I would love to hear and honest and straightforward critics. Hope you like it.

Settings:

Canon EOS 600D

18mm/f/3.5/1/100s/ISO 100

Spoiler (Click to View)

Kudos!

Update - October 7, 2015, 4:05 pm

Meh 3/10, Doesn't really have good composure. Thing in the bottom left doesn't fit in. Try to use rule of 3rd's or some of the other photography methods to make your pictures appeal to the eye.

50mmLife - October 7, 2015, 4:11 pm

(Oct 7, 2015 04:05 PM)God ?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Meh 3/10, Doesn't really have good composure. Thing in the bottom left doesn't fit in. Try to use rule of 3rd's or some of the other photography methods to make your pictures appeal to the eye.

Thanks man, as I said it was like ages ago and was one of firsts. But thanks again for the tip and please look out for some other proper photographs, I hope you like them.

Thanks again for the honest review!

Cheers!

Nachfolger - October 7, 2015, 4:13 pm

You took a picture of some indian guy. It doesn't exactly make it art. Also, it's blurry. Better than I would ever do, though.

50mmLife - October 7, 2015, 4:22 pm

(Oct 7, 2015 04:13 PM)Tig Interactive Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You took a picture of some indian guy. It doesn't exactly make it art. Also, it's blurry. Better than I would ever do, though.

Gotcha! But FYI, it was to depict the fast and hectic environment over there. And the fact that you mentioned 'some indian guy', it's not like I was on an expedition that I used some like that, that's my daily environment.

Will tell you the same as that I told the one above. Look out for upcoming ones these were the noob days!

Kudos!

Argentina - October 7, 2015, 9:33 pm

I didn't know what to focus on. (All out of focus).

If it was a sharper image and maybe you were 4-5 steps back to fit whatever that thing is in the bottom left it would of made a fine picture.

Don't rush photos, take your time. You're capturing a moment.

3/5.

Blakee - October 7, 2015, 10:04 pm

(Oct 7, 2015 04:13 PM)Tig Interactive Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You took a picture of some indian guy. It doesn't exactly make it art. Also, it's blurry. Better then I would ever do, though.

"Some indian guy". Got me rolling haha. It doesn't have to be art to you, it's just for him. Anything can be art.

Keep shootin!

I know the struggle of trying to get good shots, keep working at it, invest time, and you'll get what you want!

50mmLife - October 7, 2015, 10:32 pm

(Oct 7, 2015 10:04 PM)8ighty Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "Some indian guy". Got me rolling haha. It doesn't have to be art to you, it's just for him. Anything can be art.

Keep shootin!

I know the struggle of trying to get good shots, keep working at it, invest time, and you'll get what you want!

Thanx for the support man. I know the shot was way too far from perfect but it's something I wanted and also got some splendid feedback over the 500px community so there must be a point to all that.

Improved a lot since this image. Will continue to do so with the guidance from fellows like you.

Cheers mate!

Denitorious - October 12, 2015, 2:39 am

Some people here mistake "not in focus" with "not sharp". A photograph doesn't necessarily need to be sharp, having a fast moving subject slightly motion blurred is completely okay as well, but the fact that the the guy on the bike is out of focus ruins it. It doesn't matter if it is sharp overall or not. ?

50mmLife - October 12, 2015, 12:50 pm

(Oct 12, 2015 02:39 AM)Denitorious Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some people here mistake "not in focus" with "not sharp". A photograph doesn't necessarily need to be sharp, having a fast moving subject slightly motion blurred is completely okay as well, but the fact that the the guy on the bike is out of focus ruins it. It doesn't matter if it is sharp overall or not. ?

Thanks for that Denitorious, how does this image makes you feel overall?