Dragon. - October 10, 2015, 11:15 am

Last year's results.

Anime Adventures
Annual Best Girl Competition

Jay and Mew hosted one last year. I'm taking over for them this year. <3

Nominate your favorite female character(s) from any anime OR manga that you have watched/read. What are AA's favorite heroines this year? You can nominate multiple girls.

Requirements: She must have a MAL page. (characters from doujinshi are allowed, but they must fit this requirement)

She must be biologically female. (no traps pls)

Format:

Code [b]Best Girl Nominee:[/b]

[b]Anime / Manga Origin:[/b]

[b]MAL Character Link:[/b]

Please check the thread before posting. Popular waifus like Asuna Yuuki and Rin Tohsaka are likely to be nominated first. More nominations =/= better chance of winning. This is NOT the voting round. Popularity doesn't really matter here. Just post your waifu(s). ^_^

This nomination thread will close on October 24th, 2015.

It still amazes me how similar our tastes can be but Nadeko. You serious? Out of all the Monogatari girls. Disappointed would be an understatement.

Disappointed would be an understatement.I wouldn't say Nadeko is monogatari's most likable character, but she's one of the most interesting and her arcs were really enjoyable for me. I like most of the girls more or less equally, it's just that everyone is always over Shinobu and Senjougahara so I'm sure there'll be someone else nominating those.

Issue with these kinds of contests is that the winner won't be "best girl", it'll be "best girl from the most popular and least hated show". Shows like Spice and Wolf, Monogatari etc are too hard to beat for other regular shows rip

In more popular forums with a larger database that might be true however I doubt there's that many users in this subforum for such a thing to be true.

Makise / Holo / Hitagi, usually make it to the finals or at least the semi finals every single year in reddit but I've been in smaller forum pools where it didn't really go that way

Assuming it's the same as last year, there will be several rounds where you pick from girls in groups of four, the winners move on to the next round.

But I'd like to see someone create a website specifically for this to make it easier, Dragon specifically if he doesn't mind adding a vote.php to moetube.

Yeah, making a site should be easy. I wouldn't mind; however, the inherent problem with going this route is that it creates a situation where votes can easily be faked and the competition rigged by external parties with little to no effort. There's really no way to stop this (regardless of the amount of checks put in place). Probably not so good of an idea.

At least if we do it onsite, it's a little safer, and I can verify voters' identities and exclude suspicious votes.

Didn't think about that, could do the profile link method but you weebies would probably still find a way to rig it for your shit waifu.

Of course girls from less popular shows will have a harder time keeping up, but there's no way to objectively define "best girl" anyway. I don't see an issue.

not to mention that the userbase of this section consists of 50% "I only watch the mainstream stuff" and 50% "my anime taste is exquisite and all of you are fucking plebs", so it balances out quite nicely
