Is there any other, let's say, more professional forums for doing business? This site seems to be filled with sale trashing, under the age of 18, immature children (Not all of you, just the immature ones. If the shoe fits where it i guess.) who don't know how to keep their mouths shut. If someone could point me in the right direction, you can pm me, because i'm sure posting about other forums is against the rules.

I'm not making this thread to complain by the way, i just feel like this forum has a "strange" environment for business. Not sure why i even wasted money on l33t because it seems every sales thread i post there is always a poor hungry little indian jealous child trying to trash it so they can possibly get their sale instead. Not only that, but the ebooks here are absolute shit. No offense to any e-book sellers out here, but it's been known forever. Why are they even allowed to be sold here?

I'm considering opening my own forum and have been for a while. If anyone has ideas you can shoot me a message on skype because i will probably not be here much anymore. Skype - i.spam

You simply appoint negative reputation to the low quality fools. That's how it's done & how the fools learn their lesson.

For financial and doing business maybe Warriorforums. But there really isn't that one place with no trolls. I feel here is the best.

You see, i wouldn't even waste my money on ub3r just because of how low quality this system is set up. It's also like a pay to win forum. All ub3r's can neg rep, and normal guys who don't pay a penny aren't allowed to do anything. It's funny because i know this is the truth and this thread will be deleted soon.

We both know it's the truth. You either need to have ub3r or have a big mouth.

But still, this forum is good to sell stuff on. Just use aggressive marketing ;)

That's because you have to be approved so you don't have a bunch people making accounts just to ruin someone's reputation, it'll take a while and it'll cost money which makes it not really worth it.

Yes, but even after you're approved, you still have to pay. Correct? It's just a big money scheme. Almost like paying for reputation. Sort of silly in my eyes. You should be able to EARN your reputation by posting high quality content, not just buying it. I don't know. It's whatever..

I honestly think it depends on the type of business. HF is highly over saturated in the markets, to make money you need to be the first to think of it.

I remember before everyone was an exchanger. I was banking BTC, and needed barely any investment.

You complain about this not being a "professional forums". But you can not say you are professional Yourself, I looked at one of your threads and saw you bragging about your money, "Look at this bitches"(not for bragging but for how you said it), Very professional. I know i am going to get hate for this, But it's just my personal opinion on this user.

Yeah, and the reason for me doing that? I'll explain. Somebody trashed my thread, and it's simple as that. I'm not the type to brag, but if i am flamed, i'll fire back of course. People should just stay in their lane when it comes to posting on sales threads unless they have a question or issue with the software/goods purchased. This is just my personal opinion.

It's not much of anger issues, just frustration. I mean, i'm providing sort of unique software at an extremely cheap price that can actually yield people profit either way they use it. I only sell stuff on this forum that i know people can benefit with because thats how i do business. I wouldn't ever sell something that didn't do the actual actions it stated. I even showed proof to 2 users in less than an hour and they left some nice reviews. Funny thing? The guy is on the same affiliate network i work with. Anyways off that subject.

But still, who's going to pay 30 bucks, plus L33T to get you negged on another account.

Granted he does make money, it stops people from creating numerous accounts and negging people.

Also, you can earn tons of reputation without having Ub3r or even L33t.

Usually people don't rep people unless they have a chance of getting rep back, which is the community's fault for being that way ultimately.

That makes sense. Never looked at it that way.

Probably here if you're not going to scam.

Okay, have fun.

If you don't want to be here, don't be here.

Why would i scam. Scammers are looking for a quick come up. I'm a businessman. I'd rather have long term income and clientele. Big difference. ?

And on top of that, if people are going to abuse the system, he gets money from that, and they most likely get closer accounts and their rep removed if it's obvious abuse.
