Thread: [\[Royalty\] Eclipse Upload - Free File Storage Website | Direct Download](#)

itsMeCherry - October 15, 2015, 3:30 am

Service has been closed with minimal chance of coming back up. The paid portal will be setup so if you would like to purchase space to upload files, message me. Thanks for using this free service!

Eclipse Upload is a file sharing website made by the group Royalty. The service is free to use and released to the community as a token of our gratitude. Enjoy.

From the TOS found here eclipse-upload.com/index.php?page=information&s=terms

Quote:Terms of Service:

Whilst you use our services, you as the user will be held responsible for the interactions you make with the website.

The content that you share using our website will not be 'ours' and are still owned by the actual owner of the product/service. By uploading your content to our site, you acknowledge that we may host,backup and share these files to public requests.

If you have privacy problems or wish that your files are not access by everybody with physical access then please do not use our service. We will not be held responsible for un-authorized access to your files.

I'm not sure if that would legally cover you in any real event. If you want to host a true service make sure to speak to a lawyer about a solid TOS. Should cost around $150 to get a solid one written up by an actual lawyer. Also, spelling mistakes should be fixed.

I have already paid $400+ for legal documents for similar services. I was not sure if i would take this service up to a point where anything like that would even be worthwhile, which is why i just knocked a quick thing up my self, for now...

Thanks for your advice though.

Might just be me, but the animation seems to bug the width of the page on my phone, normal size, then jolts smaller.

Nethertheless, nice site OP :-)

Are you guys hosting everything yourselves or is it through another company? (Just Curiosity)

I love the design though. Especially the moving files to the upload link.

Great Job: 10/10 ?

I dont think you understand what happens, what happens is you have the choice of turning this feature on, completely optional.

Regardless, that feature hasnt actually been put in yet.

N1l0c - January 17, 2016, 6:22 am

Your site looks really cool and I'll try it out if I need anything uploaded.

Keep it up.

I will be honest, since this is a free site and i make no money from it, it is hard to priotirise this over things.

So i really dont know when i will add that in Thats because google is detecting a virus being uploaded on the site by a user, not the site its self which is a virus.

We frequently have to monitor the site and submit to google to view the site again. Its not a problem, you can just wait 1-2 days and the notice will be removed

SocialMediaBooster - March 14, 2016, 1:48 pm

oh okay , thank you for your fast reply and the clarification
