Thread: How to stop chrome from freezing, crashing and eating your PC..

Crash-Override - October 15, 2015, 12:51 pm

Switch to mozilla firefox.. I don't know any other way around. Fuck chrome!

Granny Bacon - October 15, 2015, 12:56 pm

I switched from Chrome to Opera once I realised YouTube was getting slower buffering.

Then from Opera to Microsoft Edge now on W10. I love the browser, hopefully they add extensions soon.

Chrome is a huge memory hog

Bagel - October 15, 2015, 1:14 pm

Firefox is even worse. Just block chrome from updating and use an older version.

Crash-Override - October 15, 2015, 1:19 pm

I read it somewhere that some extension is capable of preventing chrome from freezing. Does anyone know about that extension?

currently we just suspend 90% of the tabs with this app when we aren't using chrome actively, saves a bit at times. idk our shit doesn't crash unless it's google play music, shit crashes like clockwork.

And you forgot to mention the app (extension?)

Do you know the difference between "we" and "I"

Killian Jones - October 15, 2015, 4:03 pm

Honestly Firefox runs slower for me than Chrome does.

Ah sorry the extension is called the great suspender, and you can whitelist pages you don't want it to suspend ever.

Of course I do, which is why "we" was used since it referred to something that we use on this computer. If it was just me I'd say so.

i really wanna try Microsoft edge but im so used to chrome it just feels weird but i think it would overall be better. Also i use a chromecast so i still need to use chrome
