Thread: [\[Suggestion\] Bump button for threads \[except sales threads\] for Ubers.](#)

Crash-Override - October 23, 2015, 6:56 am

There are lot of good discussion threads which are long dead that I am still interested to get new replies in SRPP section. I think there should be a bump button feature available exclusive to ubers to bump their thread once a month.

Also the threads posted in sales subforum must be exempted from this feature to avoid any unfair advantage. Right now if I need to get more replies on some of my threads which were hot, I need to PM someone to post a reply which is tedious.

I hope Omni allows this option. The limit allowed must be 1 bump, per thread, per month for all threads for uber. Omni can also put a filter in the bump button such that it won't work if the thread is too old, to avoid grave digging.

You do know this is disallowed and results in ban?

I don't have any sales thread to start with, that makes it unlawful?

Edit: So I need to create a new thread to get new ideas or theories about the same subject (for which I already have a thread)? Is that what you propose?

After a set amount of time, you can post on your own thread again without deleting your last post, still bumping the thread.

Well that's an alternative way. But don't we need a legit way to bump our thread instead of posting again irrelevant stuff?
