What is this?

TMB (Test My Bin) is a virtual environment where you can safely (NO FILE DISTRIBUTION) check if you have the correct setup for your RAT.

You can choose between two OS's (Windows XP and Windows 7), and all machines have .net framework 2 and 4 installed.

How do I use it?

Using TMB is pretty straight forward, submit a new file and follow the instructions.

Furthermore, we have a good tutorial HERE.

Recent Updates:!HOT! Network Connection Log - List all the IP:Port the file submitted has connected to!

Disabled Windows XP Temporarily.

Added Donation Button and Top Donators list with options to advertise one link/service.

Added reCaptcha to prevent spamming.

Added what number in queue you are. Each file should take 1 minute so you can do the math :)

To Do:Install/Startup Tests with OS Reboot

Persistence Tests

why do you even rename the file you put in the vmware snapshot ? you don't need to, except if you store every file in a folder

(Oct 25, 2015 10:35 AM).NETGuard Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) why do you even rename the file you put in the vmware snapshot ? you don't need to, except if you store every file in a folder
Files arent downloaded to the vm directly after you uploading it. If two files have the same name and are uploaded at the same time it could cause problems, and yes they are all in the same folder.
Renaming them is simple and makes no difference.

Running across three issues.

Was working fine, and then I got stuck on "Preparing your file for use". I think it's down right now.

Secondly, Windows XP doesn't work. I select XP, submit form, and I get "Windows 7" and the screenshots confirm Windows 7.

Third, my bin works on my own Windows 7 and XP VMs, but not on yours. it gives me this screenshot: [img]http://testmybin.com/screen/o7ihbjcrrb.png[/img]

I have been unable to replicate it on any of my VMs.

1. That happens, thanks for telling me.

2. Read the front page for updates.

3. We have .net 2 and 4 installed. Any file that tries to get admin rights will crash. No idea what would be causing that to happen.

100 more files!

No idea why one of our machines keeps crashing. It's getting quite annoying!

Why is the queue processing so slow lately? When this came out there was almost no queue, now is like 19 and it takes forever to move one.

Because the machine crashes overnight when I am sleeping so I can't restart it!

Also because more and more people are using it i would guess ?

That too, I am going to decrease the runnning time to 40 seconds. Might not seem like it makes a difference but we same close to 4 minutes every 10 files.

I will also try and fix the windows xp machine today, just really busy lately.

Pe?cil - November 10, 2015, 2:03 am

I guess it's obvious, but many people could fail on that so I would like a confirmation Kill?Muvz :

- When there is a delay (/execution) on a file, your VM simulation will notice a connection only after this delay. So if someone set 3 min delay he won't have a connection on your site right ?

- Same thing on a runtime simulation on refud.me, if someone set a 3 min delay he won't have a good result because the simulation will finish before open the file right ?

Thanks for your feedback.

That is correct. I do hope people realize that.

I could hook the Sleep function and make it redundant but that's work for nothing.

Adding "Priority Token" today! Does the price of 10$ per month sound good?

Lets say 50 people buy it, so are you gonna make a super priority token? Its all on how many people use it at once.

They will still use it first over anyone else. I could make a 1,2,3 priority level.

Nevertheless and I am fixing up windows XP so the queues will be smaller.

If you're using a vpn/proxy that might be the issue. No the servers aren't crashed, captcha has nothing to do with the servers.

This is awesome!! i tested it but i have a problem. I come only to this point and nothing else happens. i tried it like 4 times and the Queue increases but it stops there. I would like to test new settings on my file protector

"File in number 30 in Queue. Don't refresh the page, we will check every 5-10 seconds"

Kill?Muvz - November 14, 2015, 10:02 am

I will decrease the run time to 30-40 seconds, that will make things faster.
