Thread: Invest in my company - Make a fortune.

jooglord - October 25, 2015, 2:29 pm

Hello, I am presenting to you a deal that will reward generously.
I am an entrepreneur and ball python breeder.

I am starting a business in which I sell ball pythons. I have had snakes for most of my life and have just began to breed them.

What I am asking for is $5000 to get the business running.

The money will go towards new snakes, enclosures and the materials needed for their enclosures, and food.

I am offering a percent of my company based off how much you would like to invest.

I am willing to work with multiple partners or one single partner.

You will be sending the money via bank transfer and I will return your profit by means of BTC, paypal, or bank transfer.

This is not an overnight million dollar business. This will take time and patience.

PM or post below for questions

How will you be treating them and what type of environment will they be in?

They will be in a racking system like this.

And of course, they will be treated with love and care.

Do you have a business plan set up yet?

.Pr0xy - October 25, 2015, 3:45 pm

Seems sketchy in my opinion, but hey, I have no rep so I don't have a say in this.

For 5k what percentage of equity are we obtaining? Also based on your research, I'm assuming you did some in order to get into this business what are some other competitors and what sets you apart from them?

Same questions I have. I've studied business for 5 years so I understand how it works. But I'm wanting to see his business plan first not be a dick, but you might want to explain us a bit more about your plan. Why would it be successful? Where are you going to sell it? What is your objective? Why should we invest in this? How are you going to advertise it? What kind of people would buy your product? What special feature it has? What makes it exceptional?

Timrspk - October 25, 2015, 3:53 pm

Investing $5,000 will return a 15% profit to the investor.

I have studied ball pythons and the market for them for roughly a year. The market for these beautiful creatures has been skyrocketing! Our main competitor is bhb reptiles.com - they have a youtube fan base with roughly 350,000 subscribers. <https://www.youtube.com/user/SnakeBytesTV>

However I do not think they will be of much competition because once I grow my collection I will make weekly YouTube videos displaying our animals in stock and reasons why they will be an amazing pet and investment for other possible breeders.

Why should we invest in this? How are you going to advertise it? What kind of people would buy your product? What special feature it has? What makes it exceptional? Why would it be successful? My business will be successful because there has been a dramatic increase in the ball python market and certain morphs of ball pythons can be very expensive. With breeding ball pythons there is always an exponential profit rate. For example, breeding a pied ball python to a banana het pied, we will take the $600 snake and produce babies double or even triple the parents value.

Where are you going to sell it

As the business progresses, I will create a website and sell them via the internet and ship the snakes anywhere in the United States via overnight shipping. Once I establish a large community of buyers I would like to travel to reptile expos around the world.

Why should we invest in this?

You should invest in my business because with the increase demand of ball pythons, we can predict a large number of sales.

How are you going to advertise it?

I will be advertising via social media and to people in my area.

What kind of people would buy your product?

Anybody with a passion for animals will buy a ball python. Ball pythons are the most docile snakes, so ball pythons are also a great family pet.

I know multiple people in this business that gross around 150k a year with little work. It's probably the most profitable and yet easy to manage business. It wouldn't be a bad investment in general, but it is hackforums.

Absolute Greatest - October 26, 2015, 6:28 am for a $5,000 you should be giving half of the business. The person giving you all the money and taking all the risk, and you do the work, it's a partnership. It's not like you have some innovative idea that no one else has.

MobBarley - October 26, 2015, 6:50 am

I don't think he/she is asking for a full investment, but should atleast give KickStarter or Gofundme a try to develop a hub that will show a more detailed plan of the business. This probably would be the best shot at an investment pitch.. Face it, with hf your basically talking to a bunch of bots.

Mimicoco03 - October 26, 2015, 8:59 am

Agree to you man. To the fact that the investment is quite big people intended to ask first to avoid the word "risk". HF is HF tho.

Eagerkid - October 26, 2015, 9:05 am

Bad investment in my opinion. You dont really have a unique idea

Blakee - October 26, 2015, 9:07 am

Interesting business idea, good luck mate.

I previously was using gofundme.com but I have changed as I want the investments to be more personal between me and the investors.

I am not asking for the full $5,000 from one single person. I will work with one person if they choose to invest $5k, but I am also willing to work with a group of people. This is not an overnight million dollar business.

Yes, this is how a real investment would work.

Putting up all the money should make the person an equity owner. Probably even the majority owner...

Lawsuit - October 27, 2015, 10:19 am

Why don't you just get a loan from the bank?

It is not simply someone putting in all money and all I do is work. I have already invested quite a bit of my own money into this as well .

Shark Tank - "OHHHHHHHH, there it is." - Mark Cuban voice.

That's very important information you should disclose to an investor.

How much have you put in? ?

Latinsnake - October 29, 2015, 3:53 pm

I think OP is messing something up: he said 15% PROFIT for 5,000 and maybe misunderstood the equity part. Vex asked for 50% of the company for 5,000 bucks wcxwcx11 - November 4, 2015, 4:50 pm

$5,000 is not that much to start a company...

I understand you already gave your time and money into that project, but honestly, for a little $5,000, why not just ask you bank. I mean, $5,000 is less than a decent car, you can get the money from the bank with ease, by presenting them your plan.

So, in my opinion, Hackforums is Hackforums, and it actually looks more like a scam.

Regards,

Funny thing is the thread title explicitly states 'make a fortune' yet the profit is 15%.

Completely ridiculous

Trigger3lite - November 22, 2015, 1:28 pm

There's not a lot of money to be made in this market, I keep a ball python and used to own a boa constrictor. A lot of the snakes are devalued significantly after it's discovered how they're made. You would have to continuously make new types of ball pythons to keep making money and the expensive ones are hard to make and with your experience I don't think you can make them consistently.

I could be wrong but that's my opinion.

Please tell me more about your experience.

Also what state are you in ?

Banks loan to startup businesses almost 0% of the time which is why most go to angel investors/VC funds.

Question for OP:

How much money would you personally stake in the venture?

Also if you don't mind, please remove the "futures" tag from this post as it is incorrect.

Hey hope this works out! The worst thing to do is not try!
