Thread: NEW \$35 In Free Stuff! Perfect For People Who Like Free Stuff!\(US\)

Queen Cin - October 25, 2015, 6:35 pm

Today you will have the chance to get yourself Anything you find for $35 or under all for free

Here is what you need to do/have.

Must Have

- Us Address
 - VCC/VDC
 - US Phone
- Verification

- Visit My Referral Link Here to get yourself an extra $10, totaling $35 in free stuff or use the basic URL for $25.

- Select sign up and make yourself an account with your legit US address.

- Now the fun part! You can go ahead and search the site and find yourself something that is either $35 in value or less than the given value.

- Now checkout, you will need to enter a VCC/VDC to validate the purchase on the website, but don't worry! You will not be charged at all since it deducts your balance the exact total and since you are a new member you will have a "free shipping token" on that one order.

If you did everything correctly then you should have your item shipped to you in 4-6 days at $0.00

(Oct 25, 2015 09:38 PM)The ?lack Swordsman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I just signed up and already completed my first purchase. If you use the app then you don't need to enter cc info unless it's more than your balance or you ran out of free shipping tokens.

Is this like eBay where people post their own personal used things?

(but purchase something less than $35 so its free)

If you download the app you can sort things.

1. Slide to "FOR YOU" after opening the app
2. Choose 3 things you like
3. Look for better stuff

I personally bought a hard drive and there are a shit load of computer parts on there. Motherboards, power supplies, ram stick, CD drives. You just gotta look. :P

So there's no way to cash out? I listed 4 things for 35 each and they sold instantly, but it looks like the amount you sell for just stays in your account. You also can't use credits towards shipping and that service fee. If that's the case, selling is a joke and I'll probably forget about shipping the items..

I did find a few things though, and I referred myself a couple times. Works fine with virtual phone numbers and the CC verification process doesn't place any temporary holds, just confirms it's a valid credit card. So you can use expired GCs and debit cards, etc.

seandc02 - October 26, 2015, 11:17 am

Yea you can't cash out but you can use those points that you earned from selling stuff, refer people to get free shipping tokens (or refer yourself with a fake acc), then buy things for free and sell them irl. It's a lot of potential profit.

I did twice, kind of afraid of doing multiple.

- 1- You need new number per one.. (I'm 99% sure)
- 2- They can always cancel order because of abuse of the system

Thank you for posting this.

I may actually start using this site for things, lol.

How does the free shipping work for the Shipper/seller ? It sounds like the site sends them a shipping label, I wonder if it's by email or they actually ship the label. .. Cause I believe one of the items I "bought" is already shipped by the seller and I have the tracking number.

If that's the case there's a pretty short window for them to cancel the order I would think.

Very true, unsure. I just started ordering the items though and I know most/some US postal places don't ship on weekends.

My only other problem is, I don't have any other numbers to use. It's 1 number per account I believe.

Google Voice numbers work.

No texting app I used worked so only way I know.

Someone suggested Google voice few posts up.

I made 6 accounts, one main one, and 5 others for referring to get more free shipping. (plus use the free shipping on those accounts and the 35 for something)

I was having that issue a couple moments ago.. (my 3rd order) I clicked update details, and re-tried and it went through.

I think they may be catching on and trying to fix where people can't use the same VCC. (I could be wrong though)

Either way, I'm beyond glad I just ordered myself a PS3 controller.

As soon as your item is "purchased" by someone, the seller is e-mailed a UPS label. They then have to ship it within 7 days. Most of the stuff I ordered was shipped the next day, and there's no way for Yerdle to stop the transaction other than messaging the seller telling them not to ship the item. Other than that it's sort of out of their control.

Seasonal - November 2, 2015, 3:34 pm

I believe that this is patched, or there is a limit to how many times you can use a certain VCC.

As I'm having issues now with this, sadly.
