Thread: Leagueoflegendforums.com - a new community [Staff needed]

cbao - October 27, 2015, 9:51 am

So I decided to start a new forum and hopefully I'll be able to build up a community with a decent activity - my current goal is about 100-200 active users everyday . The topic of the forum is the game League of Legends, you probably guessed it by the name. We are using IPS Community Suite 4 with a purchased skin. We made some very small modifications, so it fits the main niche. We started it just a few days ago, so there isn't any activity at all, but we'd still like to start promoting it from hackforums and move on to other boards where we can advertise too.

Since the forum is new, we'll need a small team for it and we hope that, we can find it here. No we won't be paying you(sorry for all the broken kids). The staff that we need(if anybody is interested ofcourse) is: a designer(You get a special rank in the forum as well as moderation rights in a sub-forum of your choice). You probably won't have a lot of duties, however we still lack some things like a logo and rank designs. So if you're interested please PM me.

A writer - you'll get a special rank as well as moderation rights in the Game News sub-forum. Your main job is to write about the new patches, skin, champions etc. We don't want you to write an essay, just a few words about what's coming.

We currently don't need moderators, but we might need them in the near future.

Also anyone who registers in the next 48 hours, will get a rank "Special Member" . Those will be limited ranks, that could only be obtained in the "beta version" of the forum.

That's it, I hope there isn't much hate about "forums being a saturated market", or "gaming niche being too saturated". Trust me, I know that.

It's nice and all but using a ripped theme on cracked software for a forum that covers a subject that could attract a lot of attention is a surefire way to get shut down.

cbao - October 27, 2015, 10:16 am

As I said earlier I've had a few other forums(with about 200-300 members) before, and if this one grows up to about 500 members in the first year, we'll buy licenses about everything. We'll even make our own theme. The problem right now is that this is probably the best forum system out there, and I don't feel like giving $500 for nothing. I want to be sure that it'll work.

Anyways thank you for the suggestions !

And we really wanted something really similar, so hopefully one letter in the domain isn't a problem :). If leagueoflegendSforums.com goes on sale or something, we'll get it as well.
