ThePit - October 28, 2015, 5:14 am

Hello, I would like someone with very good skills into how I can protect myself on the web to an extent of 99% Even. From popo or etc... I will be paying for any service that provides with this.

For Example - Fully Encrpyting Hard Drive, and Also using SOCKS5 for IP to get untraceable.

I know a lot of people here have the skills for that and im hoping they can help me out.

Contact me here or on skype in regards to this.

Note one thing, no matter what you do, if cops want you arrested and they have permission with international rules, you will be arrested. However, it will be hard enough for them to trace you if you use proper methods. I will PM you now.

nothing is completely "untraceable" or "undetectable"... anything made by humans can be broken by them.

You can hide, but the best way is to do something quickly while hiding deep enough for it to take people a while to figure it out, by the time they crack it and find out whats really going on, you are gone and so is the evidence.

Full anonymity = unplug you comp and do not allow humans to use it. Otherwise, there is no such thing. You can take precautions and make things difficult but there is definitely not such thing as full anonymity. However, VPN, proxies, encrypting your data will always help. Hope you find what your looking for.

There is really no "Anonymity" on the internet. There are however things you can do to stay hidden from others yet not everyone.

List of things you should run/do for "Anonymity":

- 1.VPN
- 2.Proxy Server
- 3.Use fake names
- 4.Delete all past profiles, pictures, etc.
- 5.Do not clicks links such as goo.gl, grabify, etc.
