I'm assuming you're using this:

- My.Computer.Network.DownloadFile(Filename.exe, TEMP or AppData).
- Threads for delayed execution.
- Process.Start() to start the process.
- Not sure about the "Disable Taskmgr". Are you using "regedit" for that?

Well.., it sound like the new "File-Dropper" or "Downloader" market is now getting flooded, everyone trying to make quick bucks off some very simple piece of code, well i have to ask, could you show us a Runtime Result with your Downloader downloading svchost.exe from Google Drive link?

If it's FUD Runtime on refud.me, i guess it's worth something, otherwise, it's just like everything, some c+p from StackOverflow, anyway, good luck with your sales i guess..

According to him it depends on the downloaded file itself.

I'm not trying to sale-trash, no way. I'm just trying to figure out how your file-dropper works. Consider me someone who's interested in your product, can you clear up how does your "downloader" disables "taskmgr"?

It's just a reg key, <http://www.pctools.com/guides/registry/detail/163/> it can be that, or basicly monitoring for taskmgr.exe process and kill if it exist.

The fact that people buy literally 5 lines of code that changes a reg value to 0 and calls URLDownloadToFile and then ShellExecute makes them retarded. Vin runs off with basically free money.
