

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Copy passwords from Google Passwords page

olaboga - November 5, 2015, 11:39 am

When I go to passwords.google.com I have list of all my saved passwords.
But the list is somehow hidden so I need to click every entry to see the password.
Is there any tool or way to copy that data in one click?

Lynxed - November 5, 2015, 11:43 am

Why are you saving your passwords in the first place!

olaboga - November 5, 2015, 12:02 pm

It's just an example. People do it and when the opportunity comes I want to be prepared.

nijaiseeyou - November 5, 2015, 12:05 pm

If you want the persons google password the best way for that is to either Rat/key log them. With a crypted stub otherwise it will be like 30/32 in detection.

olaboga - November 5, 2015, 1:19 pm

No. I want what I said - copy passwords from passwords.google.com list.

Cammy - November 5, 2015, 1:21 pm

No such tool available that does this thisusernameisnice - November 5, 2015, 1:28 pm

If your passwords are saved they are likely on auto fill. Go to the website the password is saved to, and if the password is automatically there in dots. Highlight and go inspect element, and change the type from password to text