Thread: [\[Rant\]](#) [\[Im free\]](#) How I dealt with my bully

haydrazs - November 9, 2015, 9:25 pm

I've always been a loner, but that isn't the issue. People knew I was weird since my first day of high school, when I was playing Magic the Gathering with myself instead of sitting with the rest of the kids. That was when it started. He hit me in the leg pretty hard, laughed then rolled off with his friends.

My parents never noticed my bruises, they never noticed my emotional scars. A few months of this went by, I was being terrorized by him every chance he got, I was becoming so depressed. One day I woke up, and different. I felt angry, and I wanted to fight this kid but I was scared of getting the shit beat out of me even more. MY heart was pounding as I walked into school that day, there he was, sat with his group of friends as usual. I walked over and he looked up at me and said "what do you want faggott?", blood rushed to my head and I just pushed this kid out of his wheelchair as everyone was in shocked silence around me.

Anyway, this is my story of how I over came my bully. I hope it inspired you.

I've never been bullied where I wouldn't stand up for myself, probably because I was a bully? I don't know, anyways it's great to hear when people stand up for themselves. It's sorta sad to see how long they wait until they do but yeah it gets done.

I hope that you can find peace in life, even after disrupting so many others. Goodluck ?

I never bully people, I was one of the people in the middle, I wasn't a bully and wasn't a victim. I'd always stick up for anyone being bullied, good on you mate.

Nah, back in the day I would try to be cool by trying to start fights and no one would fight back... Only did it to maybe 2 kids then that was it, no one ever tried anything on me.

I used to be bullied as a kid growing up and going to a ghetto black school. It was tough life fitting in with people who only wanted to hurt you. I was only left do do one thing. I trained my defense. I got it up so high that I was able to wear/afford Rune Plate body. After that no one messed with me, in fact people stayed as far away from me as possible.

Thats my story

Is that some sort of runescape joke? I think you think my story is funny you're a disgusting sociopath. Please leave.

We all know this whole thing is true and then you decided to add the wheelchair thing in to make it look like a joke.
