Thread: Which RAT is better?

SkullCracka - November 18, 2015, 5:46 pm

I decided just for fun I wanna setup another RAT again, but it's been years.

Which would be better: Nanocore, DC, or Cybergate?

(It can't cost money)

Graphiix - November 18, 2015, 5:47 pm

DC and Cybergate are so outdated.

I'd go with Nanocore.

Alison Wonderland - November 18, 2015, 5:48 pm

of those three? Nanocore

in general, Free: Babylon

Paid: Still forming a decent opinion

xRaiders - November 18, 2015, 6:21 pm

Nanocore for sure, but you should look at : IM4, Luminosity and of course Netwire

SkullCracka - November 18, 2015, 6:32 pm

Actually, I've decided I'm just going to try to setup a botnet. I prefer Athena, but I'm not sure where to get a clean DL. Plus, I don't have any money.

nightmar - November 20, 2015, 12:56 pm

go with spynet really its still powerfull

DarkComet is awful

SocialExploit - November 20, 2015, 1:31 pm

DC is crap and most crypters don't support native. I prefer LuminosityLink for a paid one but that is my opinion. Nanocore is pretty good too.

SkullCracka - November 20, 2015, 2:18 pm

Thanks for the advice everyone. I've used a couple of them before, but not for long.

#Skyline - November 20, 2015, 2:42 pm

Of course NanoCore would be.

I'm using luminosity and I like it. Just going to try nanocore soon

Root - November 20, 2015, 5:11 pm

Wait now Nanocore is free?

Last time I checked it still was a paid product.

NanoCore is paid but you can have 7 days trial to test it.

I didn't used my trial so I'm excited to test

Root - November 20, 2015, 5:18 pm

Okay lets say this you get successful and get allot of bots in those 7 days...

"(It can't cost money)"

Then what you going back on DC lol.
